Cold Spreads Suffering in Flood-Ravaged Zone; 18 Dead

RELIEF NEED IS ACUTE IN NORTHEAST

Devastation Wrought by New England Rivers; Homes Menaced

By the Associated Press
With 18 known dead, suffering in the various flood-ravaged sections of the northeastern United States and Canada was intensified today by increased cold while rising waters inundated new areas and crippled traffic and communication.

Officials fixed the death toll with the finding of four bodies in a home in Kingston, Pa., across the Susquehanna river from Wilkes Barre.

Need for relief is acute in the Wilkes Barre zone and the coast guard ordered held in readiness to move there, if needed, seven amphibian planes and 10 powered surf coats with food and medical supplies.

New Devastation
New devastation was wrought by New England rivers, especially the Merrimack in New Hampshire and the Connecticut in Connecticut. In New Jersey residents along the Passaic river were warned by officials to be ready to abandon their homes if the rise continues.

Four members of a family were drowned at St. Tites des Caps, Que., today when their frame dwelling was carried away by the flood waters of a swollen brook.

Mrs. Henri Duclos and her three small children were carried down the raging stream when their home was lifted from its foundation and demolished by ice and water.

Bridge Swept Away
At Upton, Mass., John Prentiss, 50, was found drowned in his automobile, 100 feet from a bridge that had been swept away last night by the West river.

The swollen Hudson river held five men prisoners on a newly formed island at Rensselaer, N. Y., where they barricaded themselves in a small building. They nailed boards against the doors, caulked the cracks and awaited the river's next move which may send them scurrying to the top of oil tanks to await rescue.

Return to Homes
At Toronto, Canada, lowered temperatures stopped the third push of ice and permitted water to recede from waterlogged dwellings. Trucks were able to make food deliveries, forestalling, for the present at least, threat of a food shortage. Three hundred persons rescued from flooded homes yesterday returned to them today.

Many schools and factories have shut down while telephone and telegraph service in parts of the New England states has been interrupted.

Jews Order Huge Strike in Poland

WARSAW, March 13. (AP)—New disorders broke out today in Skrzyn and Turka in central Poland as Jewish labor proclaimed a nationwide strike for next Tuesday in protest against anti-Semitic excesses.

The entire Jewish population fled from Skrzyn after a mob had attacked 30 families, seriously injuring two persons.

WAR WAGED AGAINST DUST

Colorado Plan Successful

SPRINGFIELD, Colo., March 13. (AP)—Men waged a great battle against dust today, striving to prevent a recurrence of dirt and sand-laden clouds which last year wrought tremendous hardships and wiped out thousands of acres of crops.

Even as they worked, wait-like yellow columns shot up and twirled among them, the twisters that sometimes develop into a "black-roller," the kind of a dust cloud that darkens the sun or turns day into night.

The war against dust was started by the Civilian Conservation corps as an experiment, and to show the farmers dust can be conquered.

H. G. Beecher, superintendent of a CCC camp here for soil conservation, said the experiment is successful.

Chasing Goat Feathers!

Some Pastime! Minister Tells How to Do It!

By ROCH BRADSHAW

After more than 21 years of service as a minister in Santa Ana, the Rev. Perry F. Schrock has become "of age."

From the vantage point of this "maturity" yesterday the Rev. Mr. Schrock discussed with The Journal the subject of chasing goat feathers.

His work with the Congregational church began in December, 1914, and he has been on the job in Santa Ana longer than any other minister here. In view of this long service, he should be entitled to talk on the subject of chasing goat feathers, which is an activity of much more serious importance than it appears at first glance.

"Putting tremendous emphasis on things that don't count is what chasing goat feathers means," remarked Mr. Schrock. "Ellis Parker Butler coined the phrase."

There are many ways of chasing goat feathers and the technique differs widely, depending on who does the chasing and what kind of goat plumage he is pursuing. Even the church has been guilty of indulging in this pastime.

"The church has chased goat feathers tremendously in trying to build up separate denominations," said Mr. Schrock. "We've tried to build up denominations until we haven't any time or energy left to build up the kingdom of God."

Goat feathers have no particular relation to the one popular expression, "horse feathers," but lots of folks have been chasing goat feathers in connection with horse races, Mr. Schrock believes.

"I like a good horse race," he said, "but that isn't the reason people go to Santa Anita. Lots (Please turn to Page 19, Col. 8)

HELLIS PAYS $42,000 FOR RANCH HERE

42-acre Lemon Heights Citrus Land Sold by J. F. Casper

The Orange county real estate market will close this week with ranch sales totalling nearly $130,000, as a result of the sale yesterday of 42 acres in the Lemon Heights district to W. B. Hellis of the Irvine ranch. The property was purchased from John F. Casper for a consideration of about $42,000. Mr. Casper resides at Walla Walla, Wash.

This sale and those which preceded it this week confirm reports by Santa Ana real estate dealers that not only are inquiries becoming more frequent, but actual transfers are increasing.

Set to Citrus
The property bought by Mr. Hellis is set out to lemon and young orange trees. It is in a highly developed citrus area. Mr. Hellis is an experienced orange grower.

Mr. Casper has owned the property for some time. He is well known here, having visited Santa Ana frequently during his ownership of the ranch. He is a past district governor of the Rotary club for the Pacific Northwest.

The addition by Mr. Hellis to his already large Orange county investments is interpreted as an indication of strong faith in the future of the citrus industry here. He has been closely allied with Orange county farm activity for many years.

Other Sales
On Wednesday The Journal announced the sale of 41.6 acres of bean land on South Main street to Ernest Lagier, bean farmer on the Irvine ranch. The purchase was made from A. H. Jamieson, at approximately $900 an acre.

On Monday it was announced that Claude Wheeler of Orange had bought a 20-acre citrus grove in the San Juan Capistrano area from Mrs. Ruth Stewart, for $30,000. H. Goeman paid a 40-acre bean ranch near Bolsa from A. M. Ward, for $20,000.

SLAYER SENTENCED TO LIFE IN PRISON

Jerome von Braun Selz, 27, pleaded guilty to first-degree murder charges in the killing of Mrs. Ada French Rice, 58, with a poker at her Woodside, Calif., home, is shown as he was subjected to a lie detector at Berkeley. His alleged confession was made several hours later. Today he was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin.

Life imprisonment behind San Quentin's drab walls ushered in a new scheme of living today for eccentric Ralph Jerome Selz.

The 27-year-old adventurer pleaded guilty to the first degree murder of Mrs. Ada French Rice, was sentenced to life and brought here from Redwood City, all in the space of a few hours yesterday.

Superior Judge A. R. Cotton spared the youth's life on recommendation of District Attorney Gilbert Ferrell.

Redwood City officers, under Sheriff James J. McGrath, continued search for the body and identity of a man Selz named as Michael Boronovich. Selz said he clubbed the man to death with the butt of a gun and dumped his body in San Francisco bay because he threatened "blackmail" in connection with Mrs. Rice's death.

Selz pleaded guilty to slaying Mrs. Rice, divorced wife of a former Nome, Alaska, mayor, by accidentally striking her head with a poker last June. He said he was "feeling" around in the dark for an intruder.

Girl, 14, Asserts She Was Victim of Hoax; Man Faces Charge
A romance which ended in disillusionment and sorrow and bitter memories was the lot today of a 14-year-old girl whose 42-year-old husband of an asserted mock marriage was placed in the county jail last night, charged with a statutory offense.

The girl told Deputy District Attorney James Walker a tale of misplaced trust in Alexander Arthur Bentley of Lynwood, who was brought to the jail last night by Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey. She said she thought that he loved her when she came here with him March 2 from Lynwood. A mock marriage ceremony was performed, she charged, and they went to Buena Park, where they lived as man and wife for three days.

PRINCE SEES SAN QUENTIN WAR SOON FOR YOUTH

Exiled German Visions Confessed Killer of Outbreak If Nazis Woman Is Spared from Gallows

NEW YORK, March 13. (AP)—Prince Hubertus Loewenstein, exiled leader of the German Catholic party, said today he was "absolutely convinced" there will be a world war in a year or a year and a half if Hitler "gets away" with the militarization of the Rhineland.

The prince, who described himself as the spokesman for the anti-Nazi forces of Germany, said war could be avoided if the powerful peaceful forces of the world force Hitler to withdraw his troops from the Rhineland.

RUSSIA BACKS PUNISHMENT PROPOSAL

Italy Reported Against League Action; Little Entente in Accord

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)
LONDON, March 13.—A member of the French delegation said tonight France had strongly urged that the Locarno signatories recommend to the League of Nations council application of sanctions against Germany.

The French action came a few hours after Italy had indicated the Fascist nation would not support a sanctions proposal and British foreign officials have declared "the door is still open" for further German peace overtures.

Parley in Tangle
Reaffirmation of the French stand that Germany must be punished for armed occupation of the Rhineland left the Locarno discussions in still more of a tangle, although an official communique from the conference said that a "closer approximation of views" had been reached.

Describing the French position, the spokesman said: "We are ready to go as far as possible in this direction (sanctions)—certainly as far as the other Locarno powers will go with us."

Russia had been supporting France in demanding these sanctions. So had Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, the members of the Little Entente.

Italy May Protest
Italy's sudden interruption in the progress toward punishment of Reichsfuehrer Hitler became known after Ambassador von Hoesch of Germany went to the foreign office for a conference. At the foreign office it was stated officially, however, that there was not a deadlock on the parley.

It was stated Italy told the other powers her dispute with Ethiopia must be settled before she could participate actively in smoothing out the Rhineland embroglio.

An informed Italian source told the Associated Press in Rome that Italy feels morally bound to protest against sanctions being applied to Germany.

In view of the fact that Great Britain, with the consent of France, made the Italo-Ethiopian war test case for League of Nations sanctions, the Italians were said to have taken the stand that "no British or French statesman now can go to Italy and ask the Italian people to fight for them in any eventuality whatsoever."

TAX PROBLEMS TIE CONGRESS
WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Slow progress by the house ways and means subcommittee in drafting President Roosevelt's tax program began today to threaten the plans of congressional leaders for an early adjournment of the session.

After 10 days of deliberation, the subcommittee was reported to have reached no conclusions.

Democrats on the committee insisted, however, that progress was being made. While Republicans charged nothing had been accomplished, majority members forecast early agreement on the fundamental importation of tax rates for undistributed corporate income.

SPANISH ASSASSINS USE GERMAN WEAPONS

NAB FASCISTS IN SLAYING OF GUARD

Protection Is Promised Foreigners Following Radicals' Threats

MADRID, March 13. (AP)—Spain's riot-vexed officials, stepping in to protect British engineers against threats of violence to "foreigners," today traced assassins' arms they said were made in Germany.

Authorities, it was understood, assured the British embassy of protection for English engineers working on the Zafra railway in Huelva province.

Threaten Violence
Extremists had threatened the engineers with violence unless they fled the country, picketing the offices and shouting:

"Foreigners work in Spain while Spanish engineers starve!" The director of public safety said the police had obtained a list of persons possessing arms such as were used in yesterday's attempt to kill Luis Jimenez Asua, chamber of deputies leader and Socialist criminal attorney.

The arms, they said, were manufactured in Germany. Jimenez escaped unhurt, but his police bodyguard was killed and seven fascists arrested.

Nuns Flee Convent

While nuns and priests fled from convents, the targets of repeated attacks in the rioting which has claimed scores of lives since the Feb. 16 elections, gendarmes arrested a Communist for attempting to burn the Salvador church in the heart of Madrid.

Two men were wounded in disorders Tuesday at Granada died today.

Storekeepers of the city, fearing further disorders, closed their places of business during the funeral.

Authorities of the village of Guadix reported that two houses owned by rightists had been burned.

DROUGHT HITS PITCAIRN ISLAND

LOS ANGELES, March 13. (AP)—Drought has struck the romantic island of Pitcairn, settled by mutineers of the British warship Bounty in the 18th century, word received here said today.

A letter from Fred M. Christian, descendant of the leading colonizer of the South Sea island, told Philies Cook how lack of rain had prevented a harvest.

American stamp collectors also are a source of worry, usually failing to enclose postage for replies from the islanders, Christian wrote.

Woman Who Helped Man Has Him Arrested As Thief

Efforts to help an ex-convict "go straight" during the past year resulted in the loss of nearly $4000 to Mrs. Lucy Michelini, Anaheim, according to a report on file at the sheriff's office. Today, J. E. Proctor, 27, the man whom the elderly woman had tried to help, was booked at the county jail on charges of grand theft. According to the story told officers by Mrs. Michelini, she had written checks payable to the defendant totaling nearly $4000.

At one time Proctor was an inmate of San Quentin, according to records on file at the sheriff's office, and after his release he established a residence near the home of Mrs. Michelini. The elderly woman felt sorry for the young man, she said, and wanted to help him get a new start on life. Frequently when he came to her with sad tales, she loaned him money, she told officers. When officers investigated a week ago, Mrs. Michelini showed them cancelled checks totaling more than $3000 which she said she had given to Proctor. She also told them she knew Proctor was an ex-convict, but felt that he could be "rehabilitated."

DENIES ORANGE CROP PROBLEM

The seriousness of the cry of overproduction of oranges was challenged last night at the Foot-hill farm center meeting by A. E. Ina, field manager for the Mutual Orange Distributors.

Mr. Ina said he had lived in Southern California for 25 years, and has always heard the cry of overproduction. He challenged it by showing that there are still hundreds of thousands of people in the United States who do not use oranges. They offer an opportunity for sales expansion, he indicated.

At the same time he suggested that high quality fruit must be the key to increasing orange sales. This and the need for keeping the crop down to the minimum are two important factors of the industry's future, he said.

Approximately 110 persons attended the meeting in the Villa Park social hall. J. A. Porter, vice president, presided. Motion pictures of the state farm bureau convention at Santa Cruz were exhibited by H. H. Gardner.

Attorney Fee Trial Continued

The suit of Charles E. Fuller, former pastor of the Placentia Calvary church, against Eugene I. Gottlieb, Los Angeles attorney from whom Mr. Fuller is attempting to recover what he terms an exorbitant fee, is destined to drag through the courts for a few more days.

Superior Judge Homer G. Ames at the conclusion of testimony yesterday afternoon, set over the trial until March 17. Mr. Fuller had given the attorney a promissory note, secured by trust deeds on several parcels of property, for $10,000, as a guarantee of a fee. Mr. Gottlieb had been retained to mediate Mr. Fuller's debts.

Charging that the fee asked by the attorney was out of reason, Mr. Fuller is asking that the trust deeds be terminated and the property returned to him.

FRANCO - SOVIET PACT LEGAL

PARIS, March 13. (AP)—France tightened its ties against Germany today, giving final legal status to its virtual military alliance with Russia and driving for a union of parties to back the government in its stand against German occupation of the Rhineland.

Former Premier Edouard Herriot, a leader of the dominant Radical-Socialist party, urged all political groups to drop the quarrels which he said Germany saw as evidence of French disunion. Promulgation today made fully effective the pact which brought Russia's army of more than a million men to France's aid and on which Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler justified his violation of the Locarno pact by sending troops into the Rhineland.

The deputies decided to reconvene next Wednesday to hear officially whether there might be war with Germany.

Candidacy Rumor Surprises Jerome

County Supervisor William C. Jerome was all in a fog today over the report that he might not be a candidate for re-election to his present office, and that he is considering accepting an appointment as a state welfare director. "Now, that is really news," Mr. Jerome remarked. "It is the first time I had heard of any decision on my part not to run for re-election, and it is certainly the first time I had ever heard of the possibility of my appointment to a state office. I wonder where that day-dream started."

ROBBINS' PLEA UP TODAY
Judgment on W. M. Robbins, found guilty of stealing $300 from Mrs. Mary Wallace, Santa Ana, on Jan. 6, was to be pronounced this afternoon in superior court. Robbins entered a plea for probation this morning, through his attorney, Harry Westover. Presiding Judge G. K. Sovell was to act on that plea this afternoon also.

also reported to have told Mrs. Mason he intended committing suicide.

MORE ABOUT EUROPE

(Continued From Page One) applies to any new "Locarno pact" which might be formed since, without Italy's support, any agreement reached would be merely an Anglo-French pact.

The position of Pierre-Etienne Flandin, French foreign minister, was made delicate by Italy's stand.

May Be Last Chance

The demand in France for sanctions against Italy was said to be so strong that he was, in effect, placed in the position of saying: "I can't go back to France and tell the French people they are less important than Ethiopia; Emperor Haile Selassie can get what we can't."

Von Hoesch was followed into the big building on Downing street by J. A. C. Averol, secretary-general of the League of Nations, and Nicholas Titulescu, foreign minister of Rumania and the leading figure in the Little Entente.

Authoritative sources said they believed Germany was about to give its last chance to remove troops from the Rhineland before the signatories of the Locarno treaty and the other members of the League of Nations took action.

Soviet Russia already had thrown its support to France in the latter nation's demand that the troops be pulled out of the long demilitarized zone or that Germany be punished with military and economic action.

France and Russian both pressing for severe penalties, informed sources said the powers were considering issuance of a virtual ultimatum to Adolf Hitler, giving him 24 hours to reply to a demand for evacuation of the Rhineland before the league council proceeded tomorrow on its course against the reich.

AVOCADO MEN MEETING AT LA HABRA

More than 400 Southern California avocado growers met in the Washington school, La Habra, today, for the opening of the seventh annual Southern California avocado institute, held under the auspices of the University of California extension service and the avocado departments of Orange and Los Angeles counties.

Speakers during the morning session included the farm advisors of Ventura, Orange and Los Angeles counties, and men prominent in the industry. H. H. Gardner, Orange, acted as general chairman.

Talks on Pruning

The session opened with a symposium on avocado pruning, conducted by V. F. Blanchard, Ventura county farm advisor; Ray Marsh and C. E. Knowlton, La Habra; and G. R. Calkins, Montebello. Many recommendations for the pruning and care of groves were made and discussed with the meeting.

Dr. E. R. Parker, of the Riverside agricultural experiment station, discussed "Mottle Leaf and Sun-Blotch Control."

Orange County Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg, in discussing the subject, "Do Windbreaks Pay?" pointed out conclusively that they did. A concrete tract, he said, protected from the wind, produced fruit last year valued at $455. A similar tract without windbreak protection produced fruit valued at $303. Ogden

Train 'Steals' Car Fender in Crash

An automobile fender, entangled in the driving mechanism of a Santa Fe engine, caused the crew of the freight train considerable worry at Anaheim early yesterday.

With visions of a possible fatal accident, members of the crew investigated and finally discovered that Glen Miller, La Vida Springs, had collided with the engine in a dense fog at the Sycamore street crossing in Anaheim.

Immediately after the crash, the train moved away, carrying the fender with it. Mr. Miller informed police.

WANT HARBOR EXTENSION

LOS ANGELES, March 13. (AP)—County and city officials united in recommending to U. S. army engineers a proposed $861,000 extension of the Santa Monica yacht harbor breakwater to provide for accommodation of small naval vessels and coastwise passenger ships. The mole, now 2000 feet long, would have another 2000 feet added under the plans.

Marshburn and A. C. Pickering of Yorba Linda discussed the same topic.

Meet All Day

M. B. Rounds, Los Angeles county farm advisor, spoke briefly on normal production costs, and the morning session was concluded with a question and answer period.

The general committee in charge consists of Mr. Gardner, Wendell Heil, A. F. Findley, John Newman and Walter L. West. Santa Ana; R. F. Frantz and H. E. Marsh, La Habra; Ray Easton, Fullerton; J. J. Carter, Yorba Linda. The sessions were scheduled to continue through the afternoon.

RELIEF PARLEY IS ORDERED

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Relief and treasury experts today were summoned by President Roosevelt to a night White House conference on next year's relief program.

Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator; Corrington Gill, his assistant, and Daniel Bell, acting budget director, were invited to discuss how much money will be needed for the financial year beginning July 1.

President Roosevelt reiterated to his press conference he will submit his relief recommendations to congress before departing next Thursday on his fishing cruise.

Work Started on Fullerton School

Ground-breaking ceremonies, marking official start of the new $132,000 commerce building on the junior college campus on East Chapman avenue, Fullerton, were held there yesterday.

Featuring the ceremony was a cornerstone rite, in which a copper tube, which carried names of all students and teachers of the college, was buried in the stone. More than 1000 students and teachers participated in the event. Speaking at the exercises were John W. Schiller, president of the board of trustees, Claude Ridgway, Albert Launer and Fred Johnson, members of the board; Superintendent Louis E. Plummer, Dean W. T. Boyce, Bill Hay, student body president, and S. C. Hart-rant.

Men's Wear—Boys' Wear

109 WEST 4TH ST.

Here it is -
NU-ENAMEL
the "PAINT-IT-YOURSELF" paint that everybody is talking about

"Cheer Up Your Home with Color"

HERE are a few of the many OUTSTANDING FEATURES

1 ONE COAT COVERS. This paddle is painted with stripes of different colors ranging from black to white. One coat of any NU-ENAMEL color completely removes all traces of the under paint.

2 LEAVES NO BRUSH MARKS. Paint a small area of any surface with NU-ENAMEL. Then write your name on it with the handle of the brush. Within a few seconds the entire paint film levels-off as it was originally.

3 ACIDS, ALCOHOL, BOILING WATER, IODINE, ETC. cannot injure a NU-ENAMELED surface. Place a strip of metal coated with NU-ENAMEL into a glass of muriatic acid. Within a few seconds the metal will dissolve and the film of NU-ENAMEL will float on the surface, uninjured.

4 Will not CHIP, CRACK, nor PEEL. Take a piece of metal painted with NU-ENAMEL. Bend it; twist it; hammer it. You will find that it does not chip, crack, nor peel. This test proves that NU-ENAMEL withstands the most severe abuse.

5 DRIES QUICKLY. NU-ENAMEL dries dust-free in one hour—and in four to six hours the surface is hard and glossy.

6 WASHES EASILY. Because there are no pores in a NU-ENAMEL painted surface for dirt or grease to get into, a damp cloth will quickly remove all traces of dirt and grease.

7 COLORS REMAIN SHARP. The pigment, the resins, gums, Tung oil, and other properties from which NU-ENAMEL is made, all combine to insure clear, sharp colors throughout its long life.

"IT'S DIFFERENT FROM ANY PAINT I EVER SAW OR HEARD OF. ONE COAT COVERS... LEAVES NO BRUSH MARKS. WITHOUT ANY PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE, I GOT EXPERT RESULTS FROM THE VERY FIRST TIME."

YOU CAN PAINT IT YOURSELF is more than just a slogan - It's a fact

Every day, thousands of people who never before thought of painting their own cars, are now getting expert results with NU-ENAMEL. YOU CAN, TOO! IT'S AMAZINGLY SIMPLE!

NOTICE to ALL WOMEN

For just a few cents you can now cheer up your home with color... And without any fuss either. Painting with NU-ENAMEL is a pleasure, for NU-ENAMEL is "easy to apply and quick to dry." You will be amazed with the beautiful results you will get from your very first attempt.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

WE've slipped again! Here's something more about fishing—but this time, it's on a more or less constructive angle. It's more about licenses, and what happens if you don't have em.

Yesterday we snooped about a bit in San Clemente. Following our natural inclination, we ended up at the pier. There, we saw a couple of Fish and Game commission men. That looked interesting, so we wandered up, casual-like, and started asking foolish questions.

"What're you men doing down here?" we asked, innocently. "Just lookin' around," they replied, just as innocently.

"Enforcing the license law?" we asked, artfully. "No," one of 'em said, effectively stopping the one-sided conversation for awhile.

But they finally gave in and explained that they were looking over the ground for future enforcement activities. And, they said, the actual work on making every ocean fisherman have a license is going to start within two days.

Remember that, anglers! Two days, and then you'd better have your little tin badge, or else.

We had a funny sidelight into the license business when at San Clemente, however.

When we were talking to the fish and game men, a couple of commercial fishermen came along. They stopped to talk, too. Asked about the same questions we did—when are licenses going to be enforced? And so.

But then, they started telling what a good thing the county fish reserve, which prohibits purse seining within two miles of shore, is for the commercial men.

"If it wasn't for those men on the 'Broadbill,' one of 'em said, "they'd already have chased half the bait away. If they'll only keep on running out those seiners, we're going to have good fishing around here."

And then, from joint conversations, we learned much more about commercial fishing than we knew before.

For instance—commercial boats can only take 2,500 pounds of yellowtail—that's only a drop in the bucket for 'em—the limit's 500 pounds per man on the boat. The present big run of fish off horseshoe help would've been gone, the fishermen said, if the big boats were allowed to get into 'em.

So we decided that perhaps it's a good idea to pay for a fishing license.

We're moving the county desk out to Westminster next Tuesday. Because on Tuesday teachers in the school are going to take the youngsters to go fly their kites, and the kids'll take 'em up on it, and go ahead and start flying.

It's the annual kite festival, and will be held at 12:30 p. m. Kites with the strongest pull, the smallest kite, the one that flies highest and the most artistic kite will be judged, and the owners given ribbons by Robertson's store in Midway City.

The contest will be held on the Hoover school grounds. We're going to beg for the afternoon off and take our kite out for the competition.

This is getting serious. Here we started a campaign to find a home for an orphan dog, and he's still hanging around the house.

There must be someone in the county who wants a very fine, amiable and lovable animal, who doesn't bite people, who barks little and who wags his tail all the time. Just drop us a penny postcard. We'll deliver him.

Further than that, we'll give a premium with him—an unopened can of the finest dog food money can buy.

Line forms at the left, please.

What brought on the dog business was the fact that George Wright, Costa Mesa, was just bragging that he'd disposed of seven of his ten fine pooches. Things look brighter for us to find a home for "Feller," our star boarder.

We've just had a question answered that's been bothering us for a long time.

Always wondered where barbers get their hair cut. Found out a little while ago. Vern Crispin, up in Fullerton, was arguing with his partner, Arch Cook, that it was time for another hair cutting spree. Apparently they help each other out. Cooperation, we call it.

Miss Liles Is Section Speaker

ORANGE.—Miss Frances Liles, home demonstration agent, assisted members of the West Orange Home department in cutting and fitting patterns when they met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Joe Trumpy, Memory Lane.

Mrs. J. F. Mueller presided over a business meeting during the afternoon, when adequate county medical care was discussed. A pot-luck dinner was served at noon to 36 members.

ARRIVAL OF SWALLOWS AWAITED AT CAPISTRANO MISSION

EXPECT HUGE CROWD FOR EVENT

Next Thursday Date for Annual Pilgrimage; Anticipate Fight

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—As Thursday, March 19, is St. Joseph's Day, residents of this pueblo, as well as attendants at the mission, are anxiously awaiting arrival of that morning.

According to "old timers" of this vicinity, on St. Joseph's Day for nearly 70 years, without a single failure, a huge swarm of swallows from South America has arrived to make homes in eaves of the old buildings for the summer. The birds always remain until Oct. 23, when they leave again for their South American homes.

Considerable discussion has centered around arrival of a flock of yellow-tailed sparrows at the mission. These birds immediately made their homes in empty nests of the swallows, and residents are expecting a "battle royal" when the travelers arrive next Thursday.

Another topic for concern is the fact that this is leap year, with an extra day, which might make the birds a day later, although Father Arthur J. Hutchinson, resident priest, feels certain that the little travelers will arrive upon their usual date.

Word has been received at the mission that there will be a crowd of photographers, reporters and writers spending the night at the mission before the scheduled arrival. Each will strive to be the first to sight arrival of the famous swallows. As in past years, record crowds of visitors are expected in the pueblo on this day.

SALES TAX IS TALK TOPIC

GARDEN GROVE.—Speaking before members of the Garden Grove Farmers' Club last night at the Woman's clubhouse on "The Tax Situation," B. B. Stakeholder, former city councilman of Long Beach and Orange county landowner, urged his audience to support the California sales tax until something has been devised to take its place.

"For many years," he said, "a certain group in the state has favored the single tax and in seeking repeal of the sales tax have incorporated many of their own ideas in the measure which will be voted in November. If repealed the $148,000,000 which now goes to the support of the schools will be lost and it will be necessary to close the schools."

J. A. Knapp also spoke on the tax problem, citing a 22 per cent reduction during the past three years in Kansas, brought about through enactment of its cash basis, limitation and budget laws. In January, 1933, the cash balance of the state was $100,000 and in June, 1935, this had jumped to $1,700,000, he said.

Mrs. Leslie Waight announced an all-day meeting of the home department at the clubhouse Tuesday starting at 10:30 o'clock with a pot-luck luncheon at noon. J. W. Crill, reporting on a meeting of the Farm bureau directors, announced that it is expected all agriculture labor of the county will be off relief rolls and in regular employment by May 1.

Motion pictures of the Farm bureau convention at Santa Cruz were shown and a quartet, including C. J. Marks, J. W. Crill, E. C. Whipp and I. Fields, sang. Pie and coffee were served during a social hour by Mrs. Waight and Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg.

Hatfield Is Laguna Visitor

LAGUNA BEACH.—Lieutenant Governor George Hatfield visited Emerald Bay with a party of prominent friends last Tuesday and rented Mrs. B. F. Grevatt's home for the summer, according to W. W. Spencer of Emerald Bay.

In Mr. Hatfield's party were A. Stockbrug, state director of finance; Ted Craig, speaker of the assembly; James B. Utt, assemblyman from Orange county, and Judge Hardy, head of the state prison board.

Savanna P-T. A. Has Discussion

HANSEN.—With "Health" the subject of talks, members of the Savanna Parent-Teacher association participated in a round-table discussion following the regular business meeting Tuesday.

Other features of the meeting were a cooked-food sale and sale of a cake by the seventh grade to raise funds for a treat planned for the eighth grade. A nominating committee, to report at the next meeting, was named. The refreshment committee included Mesdames Martha Hanna, Leona Jones and Blanche Moolick.

Doug Jr. Turns 'Raleigh'

New York's building service strike brought out the "Sir Walter Raleigh" in Douglas Fairbanks Jr., of the films as elevators stopped running. This was the result when Miss Ann Foody's feet began to tire during a solo climb in an apartment house. (Associated Press Photo)

Homer Chaney Is Speaker At Orange Rotary Club

ORANGE.—"Inflation" was the topic discussed by Homer Chaney, First National bank, Santa Ana, at a meeting of the Rotary club held here yesterday.

The word "inflation" means technically any unnecessary rise or expansion of prices, the speaker said. He stated that there are three principal ways for inflation to take place; by wrongful abuse and tampering with the monetary system; abuse of the credit system; and too great a load of taxation. There is no really adequate currency, he said, as gold and silver both are likely to be taken from circulation and hoarded.

"We have the most stable monetary system today of any time in our history," he said, "because we have more control of gold and currency than ever before." The second type of inflation, extending use of credit, has raised the country's debt to $30,470,000,000, Mr. Chaney said. Credit is just as much inflation on the monetary system as checks on the banking system, he added. Use of that money creates abnormal demand for certain classes of goods, and takes capital away from other types of goods, destroying the balance of trade, he explained.

He predicted the next heavy demand, one for heavy goods and building material, which will be one of the best things for the country at this time.

Willard Smith was program chairman, and a "ladies night" was announced for next Thursday evening at the Woman's club. No noon meeting will be held.

FETE TEACHERS MISSION GROUP AT ORANGE HAS SHOWER

ORANGE.—The executive board of the Center street P-T. A. honored teachers of the school with a pot-luck dinner Thursday, after a ward holding a meeting at which Mrs. Clayton Scarborough presided.

At that time plans were made for a rummage sale to be held some time this month. The next regular meeting of the association will feature election of officers and a Spanish program, it was announced.

Present were Mesdames Otis Miller, Norris Allen, O. E. Linnert, Wilbur Nave, Joe Peterson, Miss Matie Dannemann, Miss Pauline Thompson, Miss Marvel Baker, Mrs. Theresa Folger, Miss Margaret Babcock and Mrs. Blanche Brown.

Grove Legion Meeting Planned

GARDEN GROVE.—An "All-Navy" meeting to which other posts of the county will be invited has been planned by the Garden Grove American Legion for March 25.

The affair will be made by B. A. Liebermann and E. L. Fritcher, who will act as commander and adjutant for the evening.

At Wednesday evening's meeting of the post, Mr. Fritcher, child welfare chairman, reported that arrangements have been completed and work will start Friday on four tables and benches for the Lincoln school, the school board furnishing the material and the labor to be donated.

County Membership Chairman Fred Dukes of Buena Park was present and gave a short talk on "Membership." Cards were played at the close of the meeting.

Form Glee Club At Capistrano

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Announcement was made yesterday of formation of a male glee club among students of the grammar school.

Joining the group for the first practice were Hideo Kawaratan, Douglas Jones, Stephen Wattenburg, Malcolm Stewart, Billy Erro, Sutoum Kawaratan, Marion Soto, Harold Trap, Lester Waddell, John Hankey, Edward Jackson, Leon Bishop, Melvin Rosenbaum, Billy Bathgate, Oscar Lobo, Nate Banda and Dionisio Doram.

H. B. Auxiliary Plans Card Party

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The Joseph Rodman Unit of the American Legion auxiliary will celebrate the seventeenth anniversary of the Legion with a benefit card party at Memorial hall March 16. Play will begin at 1:30 p. m. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of community service and Americanism programs of the auxiliary. Mrs. Olive Larter, community service chairman, is in charge of the party and will be assisted by the president, Mrs. Kathryn Allen.

ISHAM TALKS AT ORANGE

Farm Center Group Hears Discussion on Citrus Problems

ORANGE.—A. E. Isham, field department manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors, spoke on "Increasing the Sale of Oranges" at a meeting of the Foothill Farm Center, Thursday evening. Vice president's night was celebrated, and the vice president, J. A. Porter, introduced the speaker and presided at the meeting.

The speaker said that Mutual Orange Distributors are a packing plant at the San Diego exposition to show visitors how oranges are packed. He emphasized the tremendous freight cost charged to get the fruit to market, saying that about 30 cents of the growers' dollar goes for freight. He stated that the M. O. D. has carried the advertising of fruit to the point of consumption, and have studied fruit displays to aid retailers in selling.

Touching on the juice-canning problem, he said that in Florida growers are getting $4.50 a ton for grapefruit used for juice canning. If growers here want to make anything they must sell their fruit for $20 a ton, he added, remarking that he does not feel the growers' money should be put into anything as experimental as juice canning.

Stanley Kurtz, El Modena, and Mrs. W. C. Armstrong sang. Both were accompanied by Mrs. Kurtz. H. H. Gardner gave the director's report, and R. D. Flaherty, assisted by Ross Crane, showed motion pictures of the California Farm Bureau convention at Santa Cruz. A semi-potluck dinner was served at 6:30.

ORANGE P-T.A. HAS ELECTION

ORANGE.—Intermediate P-T. A. members elected officers for the coming year at a meeting held on Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium. Mrs. Dayton Ditchey was elected vice president; Mrs. Ben Morse, secretary, and Mrs. Harry Nuffer, treasurer.

A card party March 30 to which the public will be invited, was announced by Mrs. Vernon Shippee. A program was presented under direction of Mrs. Robert B. McAlulay. Mrs. Arthur T. Hobson spoke on "Leisure, Character and Movies."

A three-act play was presented by the women's class under direction of Miss Bertha Schmidt, entitled, "Applescore John." Between acts Lorrene and William Brown played a piano duet, and Gertrude Stratton played a piano solo.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. B. Robinson, Mrs. Bertha Nuffer, Mrs. Mark Walker and Mrs. Dayton Ditchey. The nominating committee included Mrs. Vernon Shippee, Mrs. J. Bolm and Mrs. George Carrier.

Council Argues On Appointments

ORANGE.—A disagreement over appointment of a member of the playground committee members of which perform their duties gratis, disturbed the even tenor of the city council meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The names of Mrs. E. R. Forbes, George Sherwood and Mrs. L. L. Williams were suggested by other members of the committee, to be appointed by the mayor, subject to approval of the council. While Mayor C. J. Hessel approved of all three names, other councilmen objected to the appointments.

The name of Stan Wilson was suggested and approved by a majority. However, Mr. Wilson, when informed of the action late Wednesday, filed a letter with the city clerk, declining the appointment.

Resignation of Miss Flo Scarritt from the library board, on ill health, was accepted, and Mrs. Walter Pixley appointed by the mayor with approval of the council.

Registrations For Cities Told

Completion of registration for city elections April 14 for 12 of Orange county's 13 municipalities have been announced by County Clerk Joe Backs, with Democrats continuing to hold a slight lead.

Democratic registrations for the 12 cities, which include Santa Ana voters, who do not go to the polls April 14, totaled 26,611, or 258 higher than the Republican county of 26,353. Tabulation of cities follows:

	Rep.	Dem.	Misc.
Santa Ana	7433	7767	459
Orange	2432	1574	198
Anaheim	2338	2311	144

CONTINUE AIR DRILLS ANKARA.—The 45th "Black-out" of Turkish towns, villages and districts in less than three weeks, to study civilian protection against air raids, took place at Smyrna. Air raid drill has been made compulsory in all schools, from grades to colleges.

Model House Dedication Sunday at Newport

NEWPORT BEACH.—The new $16,000 American home, the only one of its type in Southern California, will be dedicated next Sunday afternoon. The all-electric residence located on the bay front in the El Bayo tract, will be open for inspection from that time it has been around.

The structure marks a new era in building in the harbor district. J. H. Estus, local agent for the General Electric company, conceived the idea of erection of the model-type home at Newport and the plan was accepted as one of the best of 50 homes in a $25,000 competition of 2,200 architects in the United States.

Irvin George Gordon and Willard Mellott, contractors, were in charge. A Federal Housing loan was arranged, all sub-contractors agreed to cooperate, and the job was started.

Modern charm and livability have been built into this two-story seven-room dwelling. It impresses the visitor as having both. A large living room, sunny dining room, an all-electric kitchen, service porch complete with electric devices, a two-car garage and shower are on the first floor. Four bedrooms, two baths and sun decks at the front and back occupy the second floor, the front deck being two stories in height.

DE MOLAYS TO RUN CITY GREGORY HEADS WALTON GROUP

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Members of the Order of De Molay will carry the keys of the city and will guide its destiny all day next Tuesday, which has been designated as "De Molay Day," city council members have announced.

The Huntington Beach Masonic order will be hosts at a benefit card party for the local De Molays at Memorial hall on that evening. Master Counsellor George Honold will be mayor for the day. Officers who will be in charge are David Callahan, junior steward; Walter Callahan, chaplain; Lloyd Bledsoe, second preceptor, and Philip Baker, scribe.

Senior Counsellor Kenneth Baker will be chief of police; First Preceptor Bob Olson, fire chief; Senior Steward Norman Toussant, city clerk; Junior Deacon Clifford Overacker, city engineer; Junior Counsellor Jeff Watts, street superintendent; Sentinel Bob Grove, city attorney; Standard Bearer Travis MacBeth, policeman; Fourth Preceptor Lloyd McMillan, fireman, and Senior Deacon Woodrow Honold, desk sergeant.

Kimmell Speaks At Oceanside

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Leslie F. Kimmell, Laguna Beach attorney who has been aiding in the fight for enforcement of the Orange county fishing preserve law, talked on the provisions of the bill at a luncheon-meeting of the Oceanside chamber of commerce Wednesday noon.

Members of the Orange County Coast association were invited to the meeting to explain proceedings followed in getting legislation for the bill. W. H. Gallienne, secretary of the Huntington Beach chamber, and S. H. White went from Huntington Beach. Secretary Harry Welch, Newport, and City Attorney Den Acres, San Clemente, also attended the meeting.

Elect New G. G. Relief Corps Head

GARDEN GROVE.—Mrs. Clara Olson was elected president and Mrs. Nellie Dunsdon, senior vice president of the Garden Grove Woman's Relief corps at a meeting Tuesday evening in the Legion hall. The changes were necessary because of resignation of Mrs. Lucille Carter, former president.

Plans were made for an afternoon and evening of sewing March 19 at the home of Mrs. Hilda Marr, with a pot-luck supper at 6 p. m. A meeting March 24 will be a social affair at Legion hall with refreshments to be served.

Laguna Artist Displays Pictures

LAGUNA BEACH.—Fifteen paintings by George K. Brandriff, president of the Laguna Beach Art association, are now being displayed in the halls of the new elementary school building, where they will remain throughout the month.

These monthly exhibits are sponsored by the elementary P-T. A., through the aid of Mrs. Henry K. Beckwith, special art committee chairman.

Beach Contest Winners Told

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Winners in the Americanism contest, sponsored by the Joseph Rodman Unit of the American Legion auxiliary, for the elementary school division were announced today.

Tommy Robinson, eighth grade student, won first place and Eleanor Rinn and Le Roy Graser tied for second place. It was reported that the contest was won by Plea Mays, Rassel Soierance and Joe Clancy.

Farm Center Meetings

MONDAY Yorba Linda farm center, 6:30 p. m. in Woman's clubhouse; dinner, 35c; speaker: Miss Frances Liles, home demonstration agent, on "Economic Destroying of Men's Shirts," entertainment by WPA Spanish trio. Don Munger, president.

CHORUS WILL APPEAR AT NEWPORT

Siegfried Group to Take Part in Services at Beach Sunday

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—One of the most brilliant musical programs ever given in the harbor district will be presented at Christ Church By-The-Sea Sunday evening when the Siegfried Chorus will present a sacred concert under direction of Mrs. Harriet Siegfried Underwood.

Naomi Myrick, operatic contralto, recently returned to her Hollywood home after appearing in the East, will sing. The chorus of 25 voices will be augmented by a trio of young women from Hollywood, Misses Jean Sheppard, Dorothy Wood and Dorothy Jackson. The Rev. Kemp Winkler, pastor of the church, arranged with Mrs. Myrick for the concert.

REWARD AMERICAN COPENHAGEN.—Dr. Henry B. Collins of the National Museum, Washington, D. C., has been awarded a gold medal and 1000 kronor (about $275) by the Danish Scientific Academy for "comprehensive description of the oldest Eskimo culture and its origin."

staged by members of the chapter March 29.

Success Never Results From Accident, Expert Says in Final Article

By FRANCES TIPTON LONG
Noted Authority on Charm and Personality

Today I am with you for the last time, and it is with real regret that I leave you because you have been so kind to me. Many have written that my analyses have proved helpful in bringing about a better self-understanding. Some of you have told me that my analyses provided the incentive to make greater progress in life, and so very, very many of you have complimented me for the accuracy of my work.

To all of you I am most grateful, and I sincerely hope that each one of you will find something in my analysis that will aid you in

Gary Grant's or Al Johnson's. I know that such a writer is definitely going somewhere. Right now—this very minute—you are making your own future. Everything you do, everything you left undone, plays a definite part in creating a future of success and happiness or failure and unhappiness.

If you put your own energy and determination into the building, use your talents and abilities, improve your personality, make the most of your charm, then you have no fear of the final outcome. If you wait for luck or accident,

I'm to hang the pen
Carol Grant

The script of Gary Grant shows an ambitious, determined, persistent personality, one who has the courage and initiative to fight for success and, therefore, a person who is pretty sure to win it.

You can't hear nothing yet
Al Johnson

Al Johnson's handwriting reveals tremendous energy and enthusiasm combined with relentless determination. His ability to overcome obstacles has brought success to him TWICE—in two different fields.

attaining greater charm, more happiness and sure success. Today, in my last talk, I want to give you a message to think about. It is so obvious that it is often overlooked—success is never an accident!

No matter what you want from life—happiness, charm, romance, success—unless you possess the energy and determination to go after it you will never get it. Don't expect life to hand you its choicest gifts on a silver platter. You will have to dig with pick and shovel for what you want. It all depends upon how good a digger you are.

Use your abilities and talents, whatever they are. Don't worry because someone else has greater talent. He, or she, may be wasting and dissipating those talents while you make the most of yours.

Handwriting does not predict the future in the ordinary sense, but when I see the script of an ambitious, spineless, lazy person it isn't specially difficult for me to tell where that person will be 10 years from now. And, mail to her at once in care of this newspaper.

LAST CHANCE If you have not yet written to Frances Tipton Long for one of her searching, revealing analyses, don't put it off any longer. Thousands have already received their analyses and many have written in to express their amazement at Mrs. Long's uncanny ability. This is her last article, the final coupon. Use it now, before it is too late.

DR. LAING TO SPEAK HERE

Dr. Graham A. Laing of California Institute of Technology will launch the new lecture series on "Indications of Social Change," to open at 7:30 p. m. Monday in Willard auditorium under auspices of the adult education department of the city schools. He will discuss the topic in relation to the field of economics.

Dr. Laing has appeared on the evening high school lecture program one or more times each year for the past four years. His first appearance was in a series of three lectures in the old high school auditorium when he discussed the problems of planned economy and the then popular subject of technocracy. In 1933-34, Dr. Laing gave a series on the national recovery program and changes in economic thought with a look at the future. He also participated in the "family relations" institute two years ago when he discussed the economics of the family. Last year he spoke on "The New Society."

The series of six lectures is a part of the evening high school program and is open to the public.

CAN WITH DOZEN GOLD PIECES IS FOUND BY CHILD

CORDELLA, Calif., March 13. (AP)—Billy Matters, 11, found a tin can while hoeing weeds for his father. It contained a dozen shiny discs, which his amazed father found to be $20 gold pieces.

WOMAN SOUGHT HERE BY ESTATE ADMINISTRATORS

Santa Ana police were today asked to attempt to locate a woman known only as Florence Neff, believed to be about 40 years of age. The request was contained in a communication from a Roseburg, Ore., law firm, administrators of an estate left by the missing woman's father, who died recently.

The communication stated that the late Burnham Neff, the woman's father, and her mother, Mrs. Jennie Neff, were divorced in 1903 in Los Angeles county. The mother is believed to have died in 1910, and according to information given the administrators of Mr. Neff's estate, she was buried in Santa Ana. It was believed that for this reason the missing woman whose name may not be Neff at present, may be a resident of Santa Ana.

OLSON LOSES CHANCE AT M'ADOO

Democrats Tell Why He Should Have Taken Delegation Post

By HERBERT A. YOCUM
Associated Press Staff Writer
California's Democratic congressmen say they believe that Culbert Olson muffed an opportunity to oust Senator McAdoo as national committeeman by declining a position on the President's Philadelphia convention slate.

None of them care to be quoted by name, but in off-the-record conversations they point out that had Olson and his Epic followers stayed with the ticket the state chairman conceivably could have formed a combination with northern delegates and accomplished the senator's defeat.

But he chose instead to decline and now they believe McAdoo has better than an even chance of retaining the national leadership in California.

Rep. B. W. Gearhart, of Fresno, thinks that after all the Raisin City may get the new postoffice it wants so badly.

A deficiency bill to be introduced shortly will carry more than $100,000,000 for new federal construction and Gearhart has been assured Fresno will be "given the consideration it deserves this time" provided congress cuts this figure no lower than $60,000,000.

Fresno was down for an allotment last session but lost out in the final shuffle. To build the new postoffice and acquire a site would cost upwards of $800,000.

Gordon Sutter is back in the capital again looking after the Los Angeles interests as a representative of its chamber of commerce.

Sutter wants to help accomplish defeat of the Pettengill bill repealing long-and-short haul provisions of the interstate commerce act, and of the Gore bill dealing with Panama canal tolls. Both are opposed by the Los Angeles chamber.

ONE KILLED AS POLE FALLS

PERORIA, March 13. (AP)—One man was crushed to death and two injured yesterday when high winds sent a 100-foot steel flagpole crashing to earth at one of Peroria's biggest downtown street corners.

The pole weighing more than a ton, was dislodged from the top of the 13-story Commercial Merchants' National bank building.

The dead man was M. L. Burroughs, 52, life insurance salesman, who was struck while en route to another building.

Fred Green, building manager, said the pole had been inspected regularly, but that it probably had been weakened by ice clinging to it during the February sub-zero wave.

CITRUS SUPPLY COMPANY HONORS 3 COUNTY MEN

L. E. Lyon and Dr. D. D. Waynick of Anaheim, and H. G. Meiser, Fullerton, were named at recent elections as directors of the Fruit Growers Supply company for 1936, it was announced today. The supply company purchases packinghouse and orchard supplies for the members of the California Fruit Growers exchange.

Business for 1935 conducted by the company showed an increase of more than $1,000,000 over business in 1934, it was reported. Total transactions for the orchard year equalled $9,592,459, as compared with $8,523,290 in 1934.

Since the organization of the company in 1906 an aggregate of $6,617,847 has been returned to members, which exceeds by more than half a million dollars the total capitalization of $5,000,000. President C. C. Teague, Santa Paula, announced.

J. C. ENGINEERS STAGING SHOW

Final preparations were being made today for the fifth annual engineers' show to be staged by the Santa Ana Junior college engineers' association in Willard auditorium tonight, according to Charles Roemer, student chairman of the affair. Entertainment will commence at 7:45 o'clock.

Besides short talks by George Wells, board of education member, Director D. K. Hammond, H. O. Russell, advisor to the group, and John Ramirez, club president, demonstrations on optics, sound, electricity and mechanics are planned.

In order to advertise the show, Roemer has been visiting the various high schools in the county, giving demonstrations on the Tesla coil before science classes and student bodies. He was assisted by John Wallace and Ramirez on these tours. Wallace gave the needed explanations of the intricate workings of the coil and Roemer and Ramirez did the actual experimenting.

Orange, Tustin, Garden Grove, Newport Harbor, Huntington Beach and Anaheim were the high schools visited by the jaycee representatives.

The county high school science students and the general public are invited to attend the annual program, which is free.

JOB PLACEMENT IS GAINING

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13. (AP)—State Director John A. Steller of the National Re-Employment service reported today a total of 13,933 persons were placed in private and public employment other than on Works Progress administration projects during February. This represents an increase of 1786 placements over the service's 12,207 January total.

Steller says "steady and stable gains" are being shown in each week's report from both the state employers and service and the National Re-Employment service.

TWO SANTA ANA MARRIAGES END IN RENO COURT

Two marriages, performed in Santa Ana in 1922 and 1932, have reached the divorce courts of Reno in 1936.

The Associated Press said today that Lila Hoyt, who married Harold E. Hoyt here Aug. 4, 1922, has started suit for divorce at Reno. The complaint accused the defendant of cruelty.

Barbara Martin has started suit against Jack C. Martin, whom she married here April 20, 1922. Mrs. Martin asked restoration of her maiden name, Barbara Drollinger.

"Paths of Glory"

By HUMPHREY COBB

THE STORY SO FAR
After suffering 50% casualties in an ill-fated attack that hardly got beyond their own trenches that morning, the 131st regiment of the line, a crack French infantry unit, are marched to the rear and put under arrest at the Chateau de l'Anglo on charges involving alleged "cowardice." It seems that general headquarters wanted The Pimple, a German strong point, captured because it had been erroneously reported in an official communiqué as having been taken. The 131st started out of their trenches valiantly, but a devastating German blast stopped them in their tracks. General Assolant, who had promised The Pimple to his superior "for lunch," was indignant, especially when an artillery officer under him refused to fire on French troops without a written order. Assolant wanted his own men blasted out of the trenches. Later he decided to court-martial the whole regiment; finally he reluctantly agreed that a man from each of its four companies must be made "the example" for the others.

Colonel Dax is compelled to order each of his four company commanders to pick a soldier from his unit to stand trial. Captain Renault of No. 1 company replies in writing that there is none of his men guilty of "cowardice," and goes off for a ride. Lieutenant Rogot, acting commander of Company No. 2, picks Didier, and Captain Sancy of Company No. 4 selects a tough polka named Ferol. Sergeant-Major Jonnart, acting in command of Company No. 3, decided to choose the victim by lots.

CHAPTER XXV
"Jeez! He's going to draw lots." "Draw lots?" "I won't draw any lots..." "Me neither." "They have no right..." "Married men should be exempt." "Men with mothers..." "Certainly with widowed mothers..." "Or sisters..." "I was the farthest one in front..." "Only those who lagged behind..." "My three brothers have already been killed." "I was no coward. I won't draw..." "Only the shirkers to draw." "Ha, ha. Watch the shirkers step up..." "There were no cowards." "The colonel doesn't agree with you." "Where are the corporals? Are they any..." "I have four children..." "I've been dited in Divisional and Army Orders..." "That's enough, men!" Jonnart cut in. "Silence, I say! Everyone has a good reason for not wanting to die. Orders are orders, and one of you has got to be the victim. So you're going to draw lots. There are 111 of you in this room. I'm going to make 111 pieces of paper. One of them will be marked with a cross. The man who draws it will go before the court-martial. I'm giving orders here, but since it's a serious matter, I'm willing to hear any objections anybody may have to this method."

"Yes, I object. The paper's thin and we'll see through it if it's marked."

"That's stupid. The slips are going to be folded up and put in my cap. Each man will be blindfolded before he comes up to draw."

"A blindfold never prevented anyone from looking down his nose."

"Besides which the fellow who gets it might erase the mark or substitute another piece of paper for it. We most of us carry some of it around. It's thin and comes in handy..."

"All right then," Jonnart conceded. "Well, do it this way, though it will take longer..."

"We aren't in any hurry, chief..."

"We'll write out two sets of numbers from one to one hundred and eleven. One set will go in my hat, the other in Sergeant-Major Jonnart's. Each man will come up in alphabetical order, draw a number and open it at once. It will be entered against his name. When all are drawn, Sergeant-Major Jonnart will draw one number from his hat. The man who has the corresponding number will be the one chosen. Yes, that's better. All the papers will have markings on them, and the unlucky man cannot be known until after all the numbers are drawn."

"Unlucky is right..."

"All right, Darbe. Here's some paper and a pencil. Tear each sheet into four equal pieces and write the numbers on them, from one to a hundred and eleven. Print them carefully, but don't fold them up until I tell you."

It took Sergeant Darbe about 12 minutes to do the numbers, while Jonnart needed an extra five. The men watched them in silence, fascinated by the work.

"Finished," Darbe said. Jonnart asked when he was himself through. "Now, as I count each number, you pick it up, call it and fold it and put it in your cap. I'll do the same with mine. One."

"One," said Darbe.

"Two..."

"Say, chief, can I have number thirteen?"

"No, you cannot," said Jonnart, "unless you draw it. Sixty-two."

"I'd like number one," said a voice.

"Why one?"

"Because I never heard of number one being drawn in any lottery."

"You're a wise one! I'll take one hundred, then..."

"You'll take what you get, all of you," said Jonnart. "One hundred and three..."

"Say, chief, can I go out for a smoke?"

"One hundred and eleven..."

"...and finish," said Jonnart. "No smoking, and no going out. Nobody leaves the hut until this business is over. Now let me see, where's the nominal roll? Ah, yes, First, Aberville. Step up, Aberville. Not so fast. Wait till I've finished mixing them up. Now, now draw a number out of my cap here. Be careful not to pick up two. What is it? Let me see it. Twenty-two."

"Aberville, twenty-two. Got it, Darbe. But if it's the right in front of his name. Next. Who's next? Ajalbert. Come on, step lively. Don't pick up more than one. Let me see it."

"Ajaltbert, fifty-nine..."

"Lalance, one hundred and three..."

"Be careful, they stick to your fingers. Langlois, seventy-six..."

"Ravary, forty-seven."

"Richet... Richet..." Jonnart hesitated over this number, realizing suddenly that he had overlooked something—something which might turn out to be troublesome. He said to himself: "If I'd only written them instead of printing them so carefully! But it may come out all right if I can keep my memory of the numbers already drawn working quickly and correctly."

"Richet, six..."

One by one the men came up to draw their numbers and to have them recorded against their names. One by one they joked, swaggered, whined, argued, affected unconcern, or acted as if they were picking up hot coals. They were all doing just what they were told, but each one felt that this was one time when he could let his own whims be the guide.

In his obedience to an order, there was not one of them who did not have an increased sense of self-dramatization, of individuality—above, all, perhaps, of power, that curious feeling of power that a man has when he votes.

The drawing and recording of the numbers took, in all, about three-quarters of an hour. When it was ended, Sergeant-Major Jonnart checked the list and read it over out loud. So far his memory had served him well.

"Now, Darbe," he said, "mix the slips in your cap thoroughly and then turn your back and draw one."

"If you don't mind, chief, I'd rather not be the one to..."

"Do as I tell you!"

"All right, but I don't relish the job."

"Darbe mixed the pieces of paper in his cap. He mixed them with both hands as if he were inspecting grain. He mixed and mixed..."

"For God's sake, draw!" said a strangled voice from the crowd.

Darbe stopped mixing. He did so with reluctance.

"Turn your back to the men," said Jonnart, "and put your hand behind you."

There was absolute quiet in the hut, that intensified quiet which seems to prevail over a host of silent and motionless and expectant men. Darbe turned and looked at the wall of the hut. He found a nail there and rested his gaze upon it. Jonnart took the sergeant's cap and pushed it up so that Darbe's hand was plunged into the pieces of paper. Darbe looked at the cap and felt the papers all around his hand. He moved his fingers, took hold of one piece of paper, let it go, took hold of another and let that go, too...

"Draw, for the love of God, draw!"

It was the same strangled voice.

The sergeant's finger closed on some paper. He felt two pieces and he released one. He pulled the other out and held it over his head.

Jonnart took the slip from Darbe's hand, unfolded it and flattened it out on the table with his palm.

"Sixty-eight," he said.

He turned to the company roster, but even before the name was announced a man was pushing his way through to the table.

"Fasquelle."

There was a sound of many breaths being released in the hut. Fasquelle, in front of the table, looked at the slip of paper, then looked at Jonnart.

"What makes you think that number's sixty-eight, sergeant-major?" he asked quietly.

"Look at it. Can't you read?"

"Nothing doing," said Poudjate. "The number's clearly 68. And my number's a long way from it."

"The number," said Fasquelle. "Is not clearly 68."

"Anyway," said Poudjate, "I refuse to draw against you. I refuse to be forced into a one-out-of-two chance after having already taken a one-out-of-a-hundred-and-eleven chance."

"Don't let me hear any more talk about refusing," said Jonnart. "Well, you're going to," said Poudjate, "if you try to put a one-out-of-two draw on me when I'm entitled to one out of a hundred. Furthermore, the number's clearly 68 and the draw has been made. I drew the same as everybody else did and without any fuss about it. It's a question of my life sergeant-major, and I'm going to have my rights."

Jonnart was nonplussed and angry with himself for having failed to foresee the possibility of this sort of thing. He was convinced the number was 68, but he didn't want to send a man to the execution post on a mere conviction. He wanted to do so ever less because Fasquelle's behavior about the matter had earned his approval. An idea suddenly came to him.

"Darbe, open all the numbers in our cap and get me 89."

The impasse remained, however. Number 89, when found, was so written that it didn't rest on a line whichever side up it was held. It could have been either 89 or 98.

"The only thing for it," said Jonnart, "is to make the draw again..."

Instantly a chorus of protests broke out.

"How many times, Mon Dieu!" "We've drawn once..." "That was final!" "Let those two fight it out!" "It's an outrage!"

"I took my chance with the rest, and I won't draw again!" "Silence, all of you!" Jonnart roared. "You'll go as you're told. No more observations, or I'll draw some extra numbers, but I'll fix the others so there won't be any confusion this time."

Jonnart went over Darbe's slips one by one, picking each up and looking at it from top and bottom. When he was through, he had underlined the following pairs of numbers thus:

6 9 66 59 68 89 96 98

There were other numbers containing ones, such as 18 and 81, which might have been subject to the same confusion of inversion had not Darbe been a Frenchman. Because he was French, and because he had printed the figures, the sergeant had made his ones with two distinct strokes and there was no doubt about which side up the numbers should be read.

"All right. Attention, men! We're ready. And there won't be any mistake this time. Darbe, mix the slips again. All the numbers that might be confused are underlined. The line shows that the number is to be read with the line at the bottom."

"Please, sergeant," said a voice, "my pal and me would like to swap numbers."

"No," said Jonnart.

"What's the idea?" said Darbe. "Well, we sort of figured out numbers had been good to us once and we didn't want to ask too much of them again..."

"If they've been good to you once," said Jonnart, "you'd better stick to them. Ready, Darbe?"

Darbe turned his back to the men again, again placed his hand behind him and felt the cap come up and the papers close over his hand. His fingers again felt for a piece of paper, caught a small wad of them, released them all except one which he withdrew and held at arm's length over his head. Jonnart took it.

"Number 76."

The crowd parted to let the owner of number 76 through, but there was no need, for Langlois had been standing near the table all the time.

The guard-room had been set up in one of the outbuildings of the chateau, in the coach house, to be exact. The coach house itself served for the guard while the harness room, leading off it had been converted into a prison by the officers of constructing a low, sloping, and man-length pallet of boards along one of the walls. This was so that the prisoners would not have to sleep on the cement floor, and it was the only furniture the place contained except for a slop bucket near the door.

Ferol was the first of the three men to be let into the clink. One glance showed him which was the best place in the room, the corner near the window and farthest from the door, and he went straight to it and took possession. Ferol made himself at home in a place in which he felt quite at home. He had been in many clinks in various parts of the world, and this was by no means the worst of them. He took off his tunic and his boots, unbuttoned his trousers, and stretched himself out on the bare boards, resting his head on his tunic which he had folded into a wad for a pillow. In a few moments he was asleep.

Within the next half hour Didier and Langlois had each in turn been escorted into the guard room. They woke Ferol up and it was the first time the three men had spoken to each other. They exchanged names and established the fact that none of them had any cigarettes.

"What are you here for?" Didier asked Ferol.

"How should he know? This is my headquarters. I'm always here. And sooner or later I always find out why. Either of you got a pack of cards?"

"What are you here for?" Langlois asked Didier.

"It's a long story and I'll save it for later," said Didier. "There's a little rat of a lieutenant who's out for my hide, that's all. I know this is as work all right. And you, what about you?"

"Well I'm here for the same thing you two are, though you don't know it. There ought to be a fourth showing up soon. Then we could play bridge, if we had some cards..."

"Bridge, what's that?" said Ferol.

"It's a game," said Langlois. "But what's this game, that's what I'd like to know," said Didier.

"Oh, this game," said Langlois, "this game's much simpler than bridge."

"Well, what's it, if you know what you're talking about?"

"It's just this. We're here under charges of cowardice in the face of the enemy and we're going before a court martial this afternoon, a summary court martial," said Langlois.

"How do you know?" said Didier. "Because I heard the order read out."

"And what did the order say? Come on, loosen up, will you."

"Just what I told you. Each company commander was to select and arrest a man to go before a summary court martial on charges of cowardice in the face of the enemy."

"But what cowardice? Whose cowardice? I don't understand."

"This morning," said Langlois, "because the attack failed, I suppose. The staff wants to make some examples, and we're the examples."

"Why us?" said Ferol.

"I don't know why you," said Langlois, "but I know why me. Because our company drew lots and I drew the wrong number. Wrong for me, that is, right for all the others."

"Jeez!" said Didier. "Drew lots? That looks serious."

"Yes," said Ferol, "that looks like something all right. But my company didn't draw lots. The sergeant just comes up to me and says, 'Come with me.' As soon as we're out of the camp he tells me I'm under arrest. Just as if that was a novelty for me..."

"That's just the way they did with me," said Didier. "They didn't draw lots in my company either. Ah, now I begin to see it. Select and arrest a man, you say the order said? The dirty, stinking little bug! Talk about cowardice! But I'll tell the court martial a thing or two. I won't let the little swine get away with this..."

The door of the clink was suddenly thrown open and the sergeant of the guard entered. "Prisoners' attention!" he ordered. "Up on your feet, there. Snap to it!"

An officer, a captain, walked in and the sergeant went out, closing the door after him. The captain looked at a piece of paper he was carrying.

"Private Didier?"

"Here, sir."

"Here, sir."

"Here, sir."

"Here, sir."

"At ease, men. Sit down, if you wish. This is serious and I haven't got much time, so listen to me carefully..."

"Get a smoke on you captain?" said Ferol.

The captain passed out a package of cigarettes and watched it, after making the rounds, disappear into Ferol's pocket. He gave Didier a match and the men lighted up.

"You all know," the captain continued, "that the attack this morning was a failure. Division insists that it was because the attacking wave failed to advance on account of cowardice. They can't punish a whole regiment so they've decided that one man from each of the first-wave companies is to go before a court martial on charges of cowardice. I can't argue about the right or wrong of this now, I haven't time. And, anyway, it would get us nowhere. Colonel Dax has personally done all in his power to prevent this, but he's up against a stone wall. Orders are orders. My name is Etienne. I'm in command of Number company of the Second Battalion and the colonel has appointed me to defend you at the court martial. Capt. Etienne explained to the doomed soldiers.

K O E OFFERS SONGS BY CHORUS

Becoming sea-minded, the Sterling Male Chorus, nationally-known vocal group on the Musical Moments program tonight at 7 o'clock, will sing "Autumn Sea," and will offer as their "B" number that popular song of many years ago, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," in their own, peppy arrangement. The orchestra, which will be outdone by the chorus, will offer the more recent popular tune, "Heat Wave," and the tango, "La Rosita."

Musical Moments are featured every Monday, Wednesday and Friday on KVOE at the same hour.

Indicating his increasing popularity, more and more cards and letters are being received by Major Harry L. Bateson, F. R. H. S., known as the "Gardener of the Air." But lest one might think his proficiency as a gardener is confined to radio, listening to one of his broadcasts from KVOE at 7:45 p. m. Fridays will convince you of the fact that he knows whereof he speaks.

Known as Authority
Recognized as a horticulturist of note by internationally-known authorities, including the Royal Horticultural Society of Great Britain, Major Bateson brings practical and helpful information to the amateur and professional gardener by means of his broadcasts.

Although he lives in Long Beach, he is a great Orange county and Santa Ana booster. He says he lives, breathes and dreams of gardening, and that Southern California is the ideal spot for gardening of all kinds, in that it is always the time to plant some kind of flower or vegetable.

The music of Guy Lombardo and His Royal Canadians will be featured exclusively in tonight's feature program on KVOE at 6:45 o'clock when this famous dance orchestra will play four of its most popular numbers, "Alone at a Table for Two," "The Broken Record," "When a Great Love Comes Along," and "Quicker Than You Can Say 'Jack Robinson'."

Children's Program
Roland Upton, superintendent of Buena Park schools, will read a group of selected verses for children during the "Gems from Juvenile Literature" presentation on KVOE this evening at 5:30 o'clock, another in the series being presented by a group of Orange county teachers under the leadership of Arthur F. Corey, assistant superintendent of Orange county schools. The program will be preceded immediately with a musical program for children, to begin at 5:15 and to include such favorite songs and tunes as "The Teddy Bears' Picnic," "The Toy Maker's Dream" and others.

This will be the last time that the "Gems from Juvenile Literature" program will be scheduled at this hour and on this day. Beginning a week from Monday they will be scheduled during school hours to be broadcast to classrooms of schools throughout the county.

A group of favorite hymns will be heard in the 15-minute presentation programmed at 8:45 o'clock tonight, to include sacred songs everyone knows. Among them will be "The Old Rugged Cross," "Nearer My God to Thee," "Jesus Savior of My Soul" and "Dear Lord, Remember Me."

Author Says Reds Misfits in Five Star Weekly Story

What about the Reds?

They're misfits, says Peter B. Kyne, famous western author, in an exclusive article which will appear tomorrow in The Journal's Five Star Weekly. Author Kyne took time off to investigate Reds. He had access to a nest of foreign Communists. The story of his experiences will form one of the most interesting features of the Five Star Weekly tomorrow.

There is scarcely any important phase of life which is not treated entertainingly in the Five Star Weekly. Babies, astrology, mining, business, ghosts, Hollywood your next door neighbor, food, sports, and a story for boys and girls are some of the things crowded into the Five Star Weekly tomorrow.

For instance, there will be a new house plan that saves lumber. If you are thinking of building a home you will find a most unusual one described in detail by William I. Garren, distinguished western architect. It combines comfort with distinctive appearance and can be erected at low cost.

If you like humor, you will enjoy Amy's letters to her boss. There will be a thrill in Sixty Seconds From Life, the short story. And whether you are superstitious or not, you will find food for thought in a remarkable article telling the experiences of Allyn Nitram, an attractive young woman who tells of receiving communications from departed souls.

In other words, no matter what your interests are, you won't want to miss tomorrow's Five Star Weekly.

FANCY LETTERING MAKES TOMBSTONE UNREADABLE

NORFOLK, Va., March 13. (AP) A stonemason's fancy lettering has condemned to anonymity a man buried in St. Paul's churchyard here.

The stonemason carved clear and straight until he began cutting the name on the tombstone. Then he went off into flirts and scrolls with the result that the identity of the deceased is indecipherable.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

ANOTHER CONCERT by the Cleveland Symphony orchestra to be an array of promising programs. A perusal of the "highlights" will assure you of no idle evening dialing.

Dr. Arthur Rodzinski, whose work with this eastern group has born a good deal more fruit than during his baton-waving days with the Los Angeles organization, will conduct the full-hour broadcast, (KECA, 7).

Headlining the program we find the Gustav Mahler's re-orchestration of Robert Schumann's First Symphony, with a new work by Walter Piston, "Prelude and Fugue," also prominently programmed. Piston is a member of Harvard's music faculty.

Complete details follow:
First Symphony—Robert Schumann
Prelude and Fugue—Walter Piston
Pastoral—Modest—Paganini
Alberca del gracioso—Ravel

RAY NOBLES DEBUT in this country—hastily formed band and all—was disappointing no end. However, I think we all realized that it takes time to mold such an organization and to find instrumentalists adapted to giving what is wanted. That is why this column has refrained from comment until now.

For Nobles' band has definitely hit its stride. . . smooth, symphonic, colorful, with good taste evident at all times. Good taste and individuality are the keynotes of his music. Wednesday's broadcast did credit to any of his English recordings. Your dialing newshawk hasn't heard anything to compare with the arrangement of "Time On My Hands."

His musical requirements were filled as neatly as any tone poem in the accepted symphonic manner. In fact, it was symphonic and your old maestro isn't backward about saying so.

HAPPILY, GRACE Moore's Metropolitan performance of "Mimi," one of opera's most romantic and, at the same time, pathetic heroines, falls on the afternoon of the broadcast.

So tomorrow, dialers will hear the entire score of "La Boheme," starring this favorite radio soprano, direct from the stage of the world's most renowned opera house. (KFI, 10:55 a. m.)

Charles Kullmann will sing her part, solo. The secondary romance of Musetta and Marcel will be played by Helen Gleason and Carlo Morelli.

M'KINLEY TRACKMEN DEFEAT LOWELL IN SENIOR, JUNIOR MEETS

RELAY EVENT DETERMINES CHAMPION

Arlin Perkins, Robert Mott Coach Schools in Competition

McKinley elementary school's track-and-field athletes defeated their Lowell school rivals in two divisions yesterday. Lowell flashed promising power, but lost to the McKinley seniors, 35 to 30, and to the McKinley juniors, 42 1-6 to 32 5-6.

Outcome of the senior competition hinged on the running of the 200-yard relay which McKinley's combination of Yoshiti, McCollough, Morales and Cleary won in 31.6 seconds. The McKinley juniors had easier sailing, although they encountered stubborn opposition in all events.

Arlin Perkins coaches McKinley; Robert Mott, Lowell. Judges were Walt Collins, meet director; Norman Paul, former U. S. C. and Saint hurdling sensation; Ernest Marr and Norman Boyd, Clair Preininger, University of Arizona, and Paul served as starters.

Complete results:
SENIORS
50-yard dash—Won by Juden (L), Yoshiti (M) second, Cleary (M) third, Homberg (L) fourth, Krone (L) fifth. Time, 7.2 sec.
Running broad jump—Won by Cleary (M), Juden (L) second, Yoshiti (M) third, Homberg (L) fourth, Bayless (M) fifth. Distance, 13 ft. 6 in.
Running high jump—Won by Cleary (M), Krone (L) second, Juden (L) third, Jackson (M) fourth, Chapman (M) fifth. Height, 4 ft.
Basketball throw for distance—Won by Yoshiti (M), Adams (L) second, Krone (L) third, Steppin (L) fourth, Bayless (M) fifth.
220-yard relay (four boys)—Won by McKinley (Yoshiti, McCollough, Morales and Cleary). Time, 31.6 sec. Lowell team comprised of Steppin, Homberg, Arnold and Juden.
Senior score—McKinley 35, Lowell 30.

JUNIORS
50-yard dash—Won by Murillo (M), Fishbaugh (L) second, Foster (M) third, Johnson (L) fourth, Heath (L) fifth. Time, 8.2 sec.
Running broad jump—Won by Murillo (M), Wilde (M) second, Roy (L) third, Heath (L) fourth, Fishbaugh (L) fifth. Distance, 14 ft. 3 in.
Running high jump—Won by Murillo (M), He for second among Fishbaugh (L), Foster (M) and Mair (M). Height, 4 ft.
Basketball throw for distance—Won by Mair (M), Cleaver (L) second, Armstrong (L) third, Graham (M) fourth and Hemphill (M) fifth.

TRADER HORN HAS STAFF

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
SAN FRANCISCO, March 13 (AP)—"Eld Bill" Klepper, Seattle's "Trader Horn" of baseball, was not quite so active this off-season as in past years but he has turned over to his manager, soft-spoken "Dutch" Reuther, the best looking pitching staff in the circuit.

Barrett Valuable
Dick (Kewpie) Barrett, tiny right-hander who led the league in strikeouts last season, should mean at least 20 games to the club.

Lined up with Barrett will be such mound stalwarts as Howard Grahghead, Clarence Pickrell and Ray Lucas of last season's team; Paul Gregory and Lou Koupal, purchased from Sacramento, and Art McDougal, former Dick Seals and Los Angeles southpaw.

The Indians' catching will be protected by Johnny Bassler, formerly with Hollywood, and Walter (Butch) Henline, and crans, and youngsters Hal Spindel and Mickey Duggan.

The infield shapes up somewhat the same as last season. Glenn Wright, veteran major leaguer, was signed as a free agent and probably will find employment at first or second base, depending upon how much Herman Michaels, tall youngster, has improved as a first baseman. If the latter's play is up to Coast league standard, Wright will battle with Andy Harrington for the keystone position.

TUT GRINS AT INSULT AND TAKES BOW

LOS ANGELES, March 13. (AP) W. C. Tuttle bared his bald head today, grinned as he took a modest bow, and said:

"I'll confess I'm a 'rookie president' of the coast league but at least I stirred things up."

By "stirring" he meant his abrupt statement that the St. Louis Cardinal-owned Sacramento club would have to put a class AA ball team in the field this year or face consequences of the league constitution.

By "rookie president" he meant the title bestowed upon him by Charles Kelchner, personal representative of Branch Rickey, vice president of the Cardinals.

Kelchner, refuting the Tuttle charge that the St. Louis system intended putting a "sandlot" club in Sacramento, declared the Senators would be able to take care of their affairs "without Mr. Tuttle's assistance."

"He is only a rookie president trying to make the grade in professional baseball," Kelchner said. Tuttle heard about it, laughed and replied:

"I'll admit I'm a rookie president but there's nothing in the league rules that prevents a rookie from becoming president. It's the clubs that can't have rookies. I am within the constitution of the league—and that's more than Sacramento can say."

Tuttle warned that the St. Louis-Sacramento combine would be given a week to "comply with the league requirements" of naming 15 first-class ball players on its roster.

"The matter right now," summed up Tuttle, "is at a standstill. Anyhow, for the time being."

HOLDUP SUSPECT DEAD; 6 NABBED

OAKLAND, March 13. (AP)—One man police said was a robber was dead today, and another was captured after a gun battle and five others lodged in county jail after a series of attempted holdups last night.

The dead man tentatively was identified as R. C. Scoville. He was shot by Patrolman A. R. Treadwell, after fleeing from an aborted robbery.

One Motorist Is Found Who Really Practices Safety

The approaching car stopped so quickly when the contest editor walked into the pedestrian zone that the driver must have been thinking about safety. A moment later the car stopped in a parking stall at the courthouse.

The driver turned out to be John Newcomer, 1115 Bush street. He was informed that he had just won five gallons of gasoline in The Journal's traffic safety contest.

"Sure," he replied, "I've been reading about that contest in The Journal."

The license number of Mr. Newcomer's car is 7N 9260. The two other winning numbers today are 6T 1136 and 5S 1305. Drivers of these cars also stopped at the pedestrian zones.

The winners will receive orders for five gallons of gasoline by bringing their cars to The Journal before 6 p. m. tomorrow and identifying themselves.

The contest is being staged to help the public to keep traffic safety in mind. Each day the contest takes a different turn. Tomorrow the contest editor will watch for cars which pull out of parking spaces carefully, without swinging into passing traffic and endangering the lives of others.

Invents Device to Save Motors

Barney Oldfield (right), famed race driver, is shown above talking with Norm Rulo, inventor of the Rulo automatic injector, a new device to save motorists money and increase the smoothness and efficiency of automobile engines. The device is shown on the table between them.

A new device designed to save motorists money and increase the smoothness and efficiency of automobile engines, which bears the endorsement of such famous automotive authorities as Barney Oldfield, has been perfected by a Los Angeles mechanic, Norm Rulo.

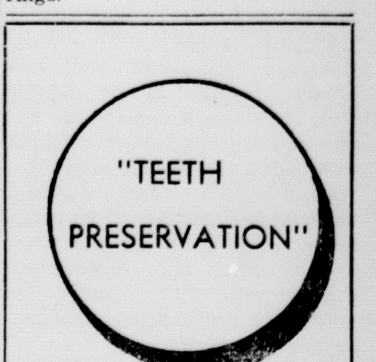

Mr. Rulo, a mechanic who has spent a great many years in developing his combination gas-saver, a decarbonizer, supercharger, and upper-cylinder oiler, states that the Rulo will increase gasoline and oil mileage, takes the carbon out of motors, seat valves properly, release sticking rings, increase compression, and give motors added power and efficiency.

In speaking about his invention, he says:

"The Rulo is scientifically designed to eliminate the biggest part of the wear and tear on any motor, which occurs in the first few minutes after it starts in the morning. Then, the oil has drained down overnight and a full choke is generally used to start the motor, which usually washes off any lubrication remaining and allows steel to grind against steel."

Rulo prevents this, he states by supplying a special graphite lubrication oil to the head of the motor, eliminating the tremendous wear caused by improper lubrication and obviating many repairs such as carbon removal, valve grinding, and replacing worn rings.

NEW INVENTION BY AUTO MECHANIC WHICH SAVES MOTORISTS MILLIONS

Listen, FOLKS—this will interest you:

Everybody who has ever heard of automobiles knows who Barney Oldfield is, and we mechanics think he is the tops because he knows more about automobile engines than all the rest of us put together. That's one big reason why we're all so proud to have Barney's O.K. on the RULO AUTOMATIC INJECTOR, because it seems that everything that you've been told about the wonders that RULO will do for your car has been checked and endorsed by the fellow who REALLY KNOWS.

When Barney Oldfield put a RULO on his car he said it would save more money for automobile owners than any other device that had been invented since the first gasoline engine. And when I install a RULO on your car this is what I promise you. RULO will increase your gasoline mileage up to 45%, it will take all the hard carbon out of your car and keep it out, it will seat the valves and free sticking rings, stop your oil pumping, increase your compression and give you a better, sweeter running motor every mile you drive your car with a RULO on it.

It took years for the inventor to figure out a combination of gas saver, super charger and upper cylinder oiler that would be better than anything that had been tried before, and cheap enough for everyone to afford—but we've got it in RULO. You can have this wonderful money-saving, engine-saving device on your car in a few minutes if you will drive into my place, Hossfield's Garage, 912 North Main St., and on a FIVE-DAY FREE TRIAL. If RULO doesn't do everything I say it will, it won't cost you a cent. If you keep the RULO it is only $5.00, and confidentially, folks, I KNOW you'll never have it taken off. You've got everything to win and nothing to lose, so try it out for yourself.

Remember the address, Hossfield's Garage, 912 No. Main St. I'm here every day and all day long, but I won't work on Sunday.

Indian Chief O'Neill Fires Cleveland; Needs 'Breaks'

NEW ORLEANS, March 13. (AP) Cleveland's Indians, their spirits fired to a new high under the popular Steve O'Neill, threaten a wholesale massacre of enemy hopes over the American League pennant trail this year.

Give the big Indian chief a fair share of the breaks, together with Catcher Frank Pytlak and Outfielder Bruce Campbell at peak form, and he will lead his tribesmen at a real fight for the flag that hasn't floated over the Indian tepees since 1920. Take them away, and he'll have a big job on his hands in his first full year as successor to the silent, unruffled Walter Johnson, whose final season was marked by dissension and woe.

Pytlak Is the Man
Probably no one man in the Indian camp means as much to Cleveland's success as Pytlak, a moody little man weighing but 162 pounds. If Pytlak, out of the line-up the last half of the 1935 season when the Indians wound up third, can come back after his illness with his old-time speed and ability to direct the powerful pitching staff, O'Neill's biggest problem will be solved. Four backstops, Joe Becker, Bob Garbank, Charlie (the Greek) George, and Billy Sullivan, are working hard at the job should Pytlak fail, but all of them are uncertainties.

Campbell, however, is almost certain to make a comeback after his near fatal illness of spinal meningitis last season. Apparently in top form, the iron man Scott has been hitting the ball even harder than he did last season when he left the game with a .325 average. With Campbell roving the outfield with Earl Averill and Joe Vosmik, the Indians should have plenty of speed and power.

Blaeholder There
Addition of Johnny Allen from New York and George Blaeholder from Philadelphia (a Garden Grove, Calif., boy), will give O'Neill a well rounded, brilliant pitching staff. Under his present plans, O'Neill will carry nine pitchers, probably Allen, Lloyd Brown, Hal Hunter, Oral Hildebrand, Willie Hudlin, Thornton Lee, Ralph Winegarner, Blaeholder and Clint Brown. All are right handed except Lee and Lloyd Brown. Al Milnar, southpaw obtained from New Orleans, and the veteran Walter Tauscher, a right handed flinger from Minneapolis, will have a big job breaking in on that staff.

O'Neill's infield seems well set with Hal Trosky at first, Bill Knickerbocker at shortstop, Odell (Bad News) Hale at third and either Louis Berger or Ray Hughes at second.

"I see they are picking us to finish fourth," said O'Neill. "That's okay with us, but I've got a hunch we're going to fool 'em this year. Give us an even shake in the breaks and well be up there all the way."

MISSING H. B. SCHOOL GIRL IS SOUGHT

All Orange county police have been asked to watch for Gloria Powell, 13, who disappeared while on the way to school in Huntington Beach yesterday morning.

The girl, daughter of Mrs. Patsy Callahan, 735 Alabama avenue, had been reprimanded the evening before, but the trouble was apparently forgotten, Mrs. Callahan told police. However, after Gloria had apparently left for school, her mother found her school books and a middle blouse behind a chair in the home. She immediately checked with school authorities and found her daughter had not appeared at school.

Since that time, a quiet search has been made by school officials. This morning Mrs. Callahan appealed to police for aid in finding her daughter, who was dressed in a white sport blouse, black skirt, powder-blue wool sweater, tan polo coat and brown sport shoes. She has dark brown, curly hair, cut in a long bob, weighs 96 pounds, has blue eyes and wears glasses, the mother reported.

NEUTRALITY IS URGED IN TALK

"Americans interested in keeping out of war should support advocates of neutrality in congress," Dr. Henry Kendall Booth of Long Beach told an audience of 100 Orange county A. A. U. W. members and guests at an international relations dinner last night in Ebell clubhouse.

A. A. U. W.'s committee for the dinner included Mrs. R. W. Tibbets, Miss Margaret Glenn, Mrs. Walter Bacon, Miss Beryl Hatch and Mrs. A. E. Knight. Ebell second section served dinner.

"Present conditions in Europe may bring war almost at once," Dr. Booth said. He listed propaganda, preparedness, trade and investments as factors in bringing about war.

Mrs. Horace Scott presided and introduced the Rev. Julia Budlong, Unitarian minister, who dedicated the evening. A business session followed the dinner hour.

Mexican dances were given by a group of Santa Ana High school physical education girl students directed by Miss Alverda West. They were Jean McKamy, Nina June Robertson, Jean Munro, Mary Henderson, Carolyn Davis, Anne Wetherell, Evelyn Kent, Roberta McKnight, Phyllis Farquhar, Pauline Chapman, Josephine Butler and Jean Ruckick. Miss Lois Allen was accompanist.

J. Leslie Steffensen, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Steffensen, sang a group of solos, and Mrs. Steffensen, assisted at the piano by Miss Laura Joiner, also sang a solo group.

Mrs. Edith Thatcher, international relations chairman, presented the speaker.

Winfield, one of the larger Kansas cities, checked in a recent monthly report of fire losses at an even $5. There were only six alarms and the only damage was to automobiles.

A Boiled Egg, Waiter, I'll Be In Next Week

MAKALE, Ethiopia (AP)—If an Ethiopian wants an egg for Monday's breakfast, he puts it to boil in the family pot on Thursday night.

There it cooks for 80 hours—in Friday's cabbage or soup, Saturday's meat stew and Sunday's grain mash—until "well done" by Monday morning.

The Abyssinian claims that the three and a third days' cooking softens, mellows and sweetens the egg. He's right, at least one war correspondent found.

BEER DRINKERS ALLOWED 40 MINUTES TO THE MUG

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 13. (AP)—Is 40 minutes a reasonable time for quaffing a mug of beer?

City Judge Moore decided it was and dismissed a case charging a restaurant owner with selling beer after 1 a. m.

The case was made at 1:30 o'clock, but the two imbibers said they bought the beverage at 10 minutes before 1.

GIRL SERVES AS HUMANE OFFICER

MADISON, Wis., March 13. (AP)—Carrying on for her father who died recently, Dorothy Busse, 21, is serving without pay as Madison's humane officer.

"The humane society is in debt," she says, "and I feel that I should carry on my daddy's work."

Miss Busse maintains the humane office in her home. She estimates she averages two or three calls a day—everything from setting a cat and dog fight to treating pets injured by automobiles.

TO TELL ORIGIN OF NEW PAINT

Romantic traditions and origin behind Nu-Enamel and its growing place in commercial usage in the county will be explained by a demonstrator at the Turner Radio shop, 221 West Fourth street, all day tomorrow, it was announced today.

An interesting account of how the house paint has been developed and its economical contribution to home owners will be given at the radio store, which has the sole agency for Santa Ana, the owners announced.

Nu-Enamel chemists who produced a "paint-it-yourself" enamel that literally amazed the world, were equally as successful in producing a house paint that exceeded the rigid demands set up by property owners, but it took years of research to get the result.

In the rapid rise to its present towering position in the house-paint industry, Nu-Enamel paint has shattered many habits and traditions deeply-rooted in master painters and home owners alike, its developers assert. Frederick M. Feiker, director of U. S. department of commerce, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, says "this product (tong-ol) obtained from the seed of a species of tree native to Central and Southern China, is the best drying and waterproofing oil of vegetable origin known to technical science."

The Nu-Enamel demonstrator at Turner's tomorrow will tell about the romantic surroundings of this product, how it is obtained, how it is manufactured in its primitive way, and how it finally gets to the local distributor.

SLAYER GIVES HIMSELF UP

SAN MATEO, March 13. (AP)—Legal machinery was invoked today against Frank Mayeda, 39, Japanese gardener, who, Deputy District Attorney Louis Dematteis said, admitted slaying his landlady with an ax and critically injuring her two young daughters in a maniacal outburst yesterday.

Last night Mayeda walked up to Joe Freitas, chauffeur on the estate of Walter Hobart, and asked to be turned over to police.

"I'm awful sorry I struck her so hard," Mayeda told officers Martin McDonnell and William L. Cotter.

He said he killed Mrs. Minna Urahe, 43, because "she did not want me to come into her room." The daughters, Shizuka, 13, and Alice, 7, were clubbed and cut. At Mills Memorial hospital their condition was reported serious.

BOLIVIAN WAR PRISONERS GIVEN GOVERNMENT HELP

LA PAZ, March 13. (AP)—The Bolivian government has set up medical and employment offices to handle the estimated 20,000 Bolivian soldiers who will return within the next three months from Paraguayan war prison camps.

The men will be released, as will several thousand Paraguayans held by Bolivia, under an agreement sponsored by the neutral peace conference in Buenos Aires Jan. 21.

Returning Bolivian soldiers will receive medical examinations, medical assistance if necessary, and will be aided in getting jobs. Increased activity in the tin mines will absorb all who care to work as miners.

"Oh, yes," replied Byrd. "He was living in a house of ice."

Local Jaysee Student Finds Dog with Split Teeth

Professors of the University of California and Southern California were baffled by a recent discovery by Paul Christ, Santa Ana Junior college student, who found a dog of the mongrel type with split teeth in both upper and lower jaws, it was made known today.

The findings were revealed by the student in a zoology class taught by J. Russell Bruff, head of the college science department.

While cleaning the body of the dog for an experiment, the student discovered the teeth split lengthwise.

Desiring to know the cause of the strange phenomena, word was sent to the laboratories of the two universities asking for an explanation, but the professors were at a loss adequately to explain the teeth formations of the animal.

According to Instructor F. H. Schroeder and Mr. Bruff, it seems to be a case of heredity.

The dog's skeleton has been mounted and is on exhibit in the laboratory of the college. The instructors plan to conduct a further investigation of the canine anatomy in an effort to secure an explanation of the split teeth.

Movie Queens Who Must 'Hold That Waistline' Like Exercise

Curves come, and curves go, as Hollywood beauties turn to outdoor exercise to maintain the streamlined bodies their public pays to see. Alice Faye (left) says there's nothing nicer than a fast sprint. Dolores Del Rio (center), who likes to swim, poses on the diving board. Tennis has Carole Lombard's approval.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Cinema stars who must give maximum attention to their figures as their heads and faces are abandoning freak diets and substituting plain exercise.

Shapely Dolores Del Rio, who has a home gymnasium designed to her own strength and capabilities, and a swimming pool and tennis courts as well, praises exercise, but also counsels regularity of life.

"I mean regularity not only in sleeping, eating, exercise, relaxation or work—but even in thinking," she explains.

"A woman must not dissipate her strength, nervous system, or disposition on worry and temperamental outbursts. . . . Of course health is the basis of all happiness and the basis of all beauty and charm. I do not believe in reducing diets, but I do believe in health diets.

"Neither do I believe women should indulge in too strenuous exercise or in outdoor sports that are exclusively masculine. Calisthenics and graceful exercising should definitely have their place on the daily program, not only for figure control, but as a vital aid to good health." Alice Faye keeps the form her dancing roles reveal on the screen by "eating sensibly," taking long walks, practicing dance steps, playing tennis, and generally "keeping on the go. She thinks too much rest and relaxation are dangerous to a dancer, that muscles hardened by dancing are apt to become flabby and soft if neglected, with disastrous results to the figure. So she tries not to relax too much, and uses between-scenes intervals to tap-dance, or skip rope. As a preparation for a dancing scene, she likes to jump hedges.

Carole Lombard Likes Tennis
Carole Lombard, one of the best-dressed women of the screen, who has a figure to match, places her trust in tennis as a figure-preserver. "It's the best exercise I know," she says. "If I play twice a week, I find I don't have to diet or go to a masseuse to keep fit."

Exercise heads: Fay Wray's health program, her favorites being tennis, ping-pong, swimming and riding. As for diet, she believes in moderation, eschewing overly starchy or richly spiced foods, and eating plain foods fresh vegetables and fruits.

Ida Lupino "rows" with a physical instructor—in a gymnasium—for her daily exercise, and Gertrude Michael—before she had that auto accident—liked the stationary bicycle as a keep-fit aid. Jean Harlow has a "four-day diet," comprising nourishing but non-fattening foods, for occasional use as a figure helper, but it is not one to be used indiscriminately by others for whom it was not especially devised.

RULING ORDERS SECOND PAYMENT IN 8 YEARS ON OLD JUDGMENT

REPUBLICANS MAKE LARGE DONATIONS

Contributions Made to Democrats Few and Far Between

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Reports submitted to the house for the first two months of this year disclosed today that sizeable contributions are pouring into the Republican national committee, but that they are few and far between around Democratic headquarters and the American Liberty league.

During the first two months of the election year, the Republicans received contributions aggregating $261,387. The Democrats, with few big gifts, collected only $49,053. The Liberty League, which got $483,000 last year, received only $64,702.

Democrats Spend

The Democrats—their income bolstered by $200,000 from Philadelphia, the convention city, and $270,000 from the Jackson day dinners—were spending much faster than Republicans.

The Republican national committee, since the first of the year started, spent $165,599, leaving $356,288 in the treasury on the first of March.

In contrast, the Democrats spent $322,900 out of $550,000, leaving only $227,000 on hand March 1, of which $136,419 was owed on loans or in unpaid bills.

League Figures Lacking

The Liberty League made no accounting of its financial standing either at the beginning or end of the two-months period, but reported total receipts of $64,452 and expenditures of $108,175.

Here were some of the bigger contributions listed by the Republicans: Julius S. Morgan, New York, $5000; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., New York, $5000; George F. Baker, New York, $5000; W. L. Mellon, Pittsburgh, $2500; H. E. Manville, New York, $5000; H. P. Davidson, New York, $5000; George B. Dryden, Evanston, Ill., $5000; Mrs. Charles H. Schweppé, Lake Forest, Ill., $5000; Albert W. Harris, Chicago, $10,000; Lester Armour, Chicago, $4000; F. E. Sullivan, San Francisco, $5000; F. J. Belcher, San Francisco, $5000; L. E. Wood, San Francisco, $5000; W. Alexander, San Francisco, $4200; H. S. Vanderbilt, New York, $3333; William H. Crocker, San Francisco, $5000.

Other Donations

The Republican congressional committee also reported contributions of $5000 from Vanderbilt; $2500 from Mellon; and $5000 each from Baker and Sloan.

Large contributions to the Democrats included: Maurice E. Harrison, San Francisco, $5000; M. W. Johnson, Ogden, Utah, $2000; Arthur O. Olson, Tulsa, $3500. In

HONOR FOR HOMELIEST DOG

Sciots Will See To That

The homeliest dog in Santa Ana is going to be a hero on March 21.

He's going to win fifth prize in the dog contest to be staged as the main attraction of children's day at the Sciots spring fiesta. He'll annex either a fancy collar for himself or a flashlight for his master. Besides that he'll provide his owner with free tickets to all the attractions on the grounds at Fourth and Garfield streets.

The same will be true for the other dogs which win prizes. Any kind of a pooch can be entered, whether pedigreed or not.

The first prize, for the best dog, will be a silver loving cup. Second place will go to the prettiest dog—a fishing pole or tennis racket. The smallest dog will win third prize, a Boy Scout knife or

A. W. CLEAVER VERDICT IS UPHELD

Wettlin - Parra Mixup On Damages Goes Back to 1927

An acquitted man can not be tried twice for the same crime, the law says. But a man can be held responsible for the same damages twice, unless he makes absolutely certain that he is getting the right person to sign a receipt, known to the profession as a "satisfaction of judgment."

This fact was demonstrated beyond shadow of doubt in the appellate court decision handed down today, which holds A. W. Cleaver, Fullerton laundryman, financially responsible twice within eight years for damages to two-year-old Jose Parra in an automobile accident in 1927.

The case went to the appellate court a year ago when Mr. Cleaver appealed from a ruling of Superior Judge H. G. Ames, Santa Ana, to that effect. Attorney Carl Heim, Santa Ana, had pressed the suit, after he had discovered that his client's former lawyer, Dave Wettlin, had never paid young Parra the judgment of $1,950 awarded him. The story is long and involved.

Auto Accident Case

In 1927, Manuel Parra, father of young Jose, sued Mr. Cleaver for damages after an automobile accident in Fullerton. Dave Wettlin acted as attorney, calling in the law firm of Horace Head, A. W. Rutan and G. K. Scovel, now presiding judge, as associates.

Judgment was rendered for $1,950, from which Mr. Cleaver appealed. The appellate court in 1931 upheld the judgment, and the defendant was ordered to pay the claim, which with accrued interest had grown by that time to $2,600.

The judgment was made by check, payable to Wettlin, and to the firm of Head, Rutan and Scovel. According to testimony offered at the hearing, Mr. Wettlin indorsed the check, and had the associate firm indorse it also. Before it could be handed over to the Parra family the client was nowhere to be found.

The boy's father had died in 1929 and the mother had married again, moving to San Bernardino county. So Mr. Wettlin and Mr. Head signed the satisfaction of judgment. About a month later, representatives of the Parra family appeared in Santa Ana and asked Mr. Wettlin about the payment.

Wettlin to Prison

For answer Mr. Wettlin said the payment had not yet been made. In 1934 Mr. Wettlin was convicted in superior court of misusing funds of another estate of which he was trustee, and sentenced to serve a term in San Quentin prison. While he was in Prison Mr. Heim was retained as counsel for the Parra interests, in November, 1934.

Early in 1935, Mr. Heim discovered that the judgment had been paid, and that a satisfaction of judgment had been given. He promptly instituted suit in superior court to have the satisfaction set aside. Judge Ames granted the request, and designated Mr. Cleaver as twice liable for the claim. Mr. Cleaver appealed.

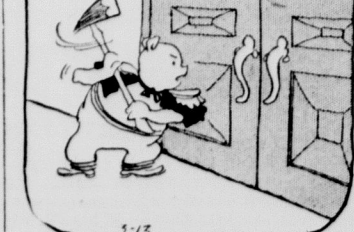

After the case had gone to the appellate court, Mr. Cleaver instituted suit against Mr. Wettlin, still in San Quentin, and against Mr. Head and Mr. Rutan. The court dismissed this suit, inasmuch as the case was still in court, and no damage had actually been sustained.

It's Now $5,700

Mr. Cleaver told to wait until he had actually paid the money for the second time, and then to sue again. Time passed, and Mr. Wettlin was released from San Quentin, the statute of limitations in the meantime outlawing any criminal liability for the misappropriation of the Parra funds.

Today the appellate court upheld Judge Ames' decision, and Mr. Cleaver was ordered to make payment once again to the Parra boy. The claim has grown by now to $3,100.

The case will be in the courts

SECURITY ACT CHANGE MAY BE SOUGHT

State Interests Tell About Insurance, Old Age Pension Problems

By L. S. KIMBALL (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Two important changes in the federal social security act may be sought from congress by California interests.

One affects aid for the destitute aged; the other concerns unemployment insurance.

California social welfare workers believe the federal act on pensions should be revised to permit the individual residence restrictions of the states to prevail.

Many California businessmen have told the state unemployment reserves commission that some limitation should be placed upon salaries subject to tax.

Pension Problem

Welfare workers argue the pension problem thusly:

If California accepts federal aid in financing its destitute aged, it must cut its residence restrictions to five years from 15.

While counties and the state, which share the cost now, would benefit at first, they would face a tremendous financial burden in a few years.

Welfare experts picture thousands of marginal laborers from the south flocking to the state to obtain its generous pensions.

After three years of scraping by in the moderate California climate, these newcomers would be eligible for county relief. In two more years they could claim a pension which might average as much as they ever made in the south in good times—between $20 and $30 a month.

If California can keep the bars up it can take care of its own destitute aged, but let in the destitute of other states and "you'll hand us a real financial crisis in a few years," they warn.

Insurance Situation

Businessmen seeking a revision of the unemployment insurance provisions argue that with no restrictions on salaries a $10,000-a-year man, while paying far more tax than a clerk, benefits the same in the event of unemployment—$7 to $15 a week.

They would limit the tax to the first $3,000 of salary. Such a limitation prevails in the old age security section of the federal act.

CANCEL FEDERAL GRANT TO TOWN

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Secretary Ickes has cancelled an $8,000 grant for sewer construction to Carpinteria, Calif., "because the city has not proceeded with construction."

For a long time, Mr. Cleaver's next move is to sue Mr. Wettlin and, if he wants to, everyone else connected with the case, to recover his $1,950, or his $2,600, or even his $3,100.

And the Orange county superior court will be the scene once again of the same old battle fought on the same old lines. The original $1,950 has grown already to $5,700. No one knows when it will stop.

WINNERS TOLD SCHOOL PAPER IN FUND DRIVE WINS PRIZE

Prizes will be awarded Monday to winners in the first Phi Theta Kappa scholarship drive, when the junior college Math 4B and printing 52B classes received boxes of homemade candy for contributing the largest sums to the total of $52 raised in the two-day campaign concluded yesterday. Miss Mabel Whiting is instructor of the math class, first prize winner.

To increase the scholarship loan fund to $100, Phi Theta Kappa will add $8 from its treasury. The organization will take charge of the monthly De Molay dance, Friday, March 27. Alpha Gamma Sigma and Phi Theta Kappa members cooperated in the campus drive, directed by Louise Sexton, president of the sponsoring chapter, and Miss Lella Watson, advisor.

Publicity was in charge of Mary Wallace and Edna Wilson; containers, Joe Langland; envelopes, Katherine Bolton, and prizes, Alice Compton.

National socialism has spread among Germans living abroad, with 500 different party groups in many lands having been organized.

WPA LEADERS TO DISCUSS STATE CUT

Directors Meet March 16 to Plan Drastic Slash in Rolls

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13. (AP)—California's 12 district directors of the Works Progress administration will meet here March 16 with State Administrator Frank Y. McLaughlin to discuss ways and means of reducing WPA rolls to 109,450 by June 30.

McLaughlin declares the directors will consider a program for carrying out the reductions from the present total of more than 150,000 "in an orderly manner to meet the requirements of agriculture, private industry and other federal agencies."

A total of $64,173,000 has been allotted to 3715 projects in California. Of these 3075 now are in operation.

FAMOUS STORE WINS PRIZES IN CITY SPRING EVENT

Pete Colanichick, local manager for the Famous Department store, has received word that the Glendale Famous received signal honors in a recent city-wide annual event, called the "Modes of Spring." The award for the best department store window display went to the Famous, and the same store also captured the grand sweepstakes, the presentation of these awards being made by President Potter of the Merchants association there. Naturally, the Santa Ana store is sharing in the satisfaction that goes to another member of the organization.

In this connection it is only fair to mention that the display windows of the Santa Ana Famous store have been receiving frequent compliments for the steady improvement in the art of merchandising display.

Dividends have been paid for 35 years on 450 shares of stock lying in a sunken ship in San Francisco's Golden Gate.

and LaVonne Frandson, editor last semester, head student staffs responsible for the winning paper. "The Generator" was entered in competition with schools of 801 to 1500 enrollment.

Monday Evening Brings Initiation Rites for Four Jaysee Women's Clubs

Five To Meet in Members' Homes

Candlelight Popular with Collegiennes; Social Hour Is Set

Candlelight will flicker in four homes when four Santa Ana Junior college women's clubs meet for initiation rites Monday evening. A fifth club will meet in informal session, but without initiating anyone.

Spinsters will rally at the home of Miss Frances Was, 617 Orange avenue. Gardenias will go to the group's initiates, Misses Helen Ferguson, Dorothy Grist, Lorna Berry and Katherine McDermott. Candlelight will be used.

Las Meninas will take in five collegiennes by candlelight at the home of Miss Lois Pranke, 920 Fairview street. Misses Velma Kuchel, Dorothy Jenkins, Kay Blake, John Strahle and Margaret Kelly will take the vows.

Moons aren't to initiate, but will meet for an informal party at the home of Margaret Blackwood, 118 South Ross street, and play bridge. Las Gitanas will have their candlelight rites at Ruth Wasson's, 1042 West Myrtle street, for Misses Genevieve Eustis, Kathryn Belle Bolton, Gerrie Griffith, Mary Elizabeth Heaney, Anne Borehard, Mary Crowe, Betty Hill and Dorothy Stadel. A theater party will follow.

Piloteers will play cards at Margaret Brugger's, 220 South Sycamore street, after initiating Misses Marian Pletke, Eunice and Margaret Flier, Helen Markel, Margaret Crowell, Jean Trudwell, Charlotte McCausland, Clarice Miller, Tannis Heiman and Jean Upshall.

MISS EDITH SAWYER WELCOMED TO CITY AT TEA FOR BOARD

Miss Edith Sawyer of New York City, national Y. W. C. A. secretary, was welcomed to Santa Ana this afternoon at a tea given between 2 and 3 o'clock in the home of the local association president, Miss Mabel McRadden, 906 North Main street, for all board members of the Santa Ana group.

Miss Sawyer, who is one of two national staff members working on the west coast, was to discuss plans for the annual Y. W. convention to be held April 29 to May 5 in Colorado Springs.

The executive worker was in Fullerton yesterday and will be in Orange tomorrow and planned to spend this afternoon working with the Santa Ana organization.

MRS. D. E. LIGGETT ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. D. E. Liggett entertained members of her contract bridge club at a gay St. Patrick's desert party yesterday afternoon in her home on Bonnie Brae street.

Green flowers, crystalware, candles and linens were used in the serving, and green tissues tied the prizes which went to Mrs. C. E. Hayes and Mrs. Frank Latham.

Other guests were Mesdames Jesse Elliott, Don S. Mozley, Olin Turner, Ray Wolven and Herbert Allemen.

THEY'RE NOW TO SERVE STATE

Mrs. W. T. Kirven, left, and Mrs. Neal Beisel, veteran Santa Ana Parent-Teacher association workers, are on the state P. T. A. ticket for the coming annual April election of state officers.

Parisian New Modes Go To Head

PARIS.—Evening tailors, those semi-formal costumes that were important in every mid-season collection in Paris, have made new demands of millinery for little evening occasions.

To wear the pencil slim tailors de minuit, usually in length, are evening toques or caps that are seldom more than a pouff of gold cloth and a whiff of veiling. They are as soft as kitten ears or as sculptured as coiffures and provide the feminine touch that is required for straight line silhouettes.

There is a new gold spun taffeta that has undertones of antique Persian colorings being used in formal headgear. The gold and black taffeta cap is saucer shallow covered with rosettes clustered to the fore. It is matched by a rosette necklace that ties in back, a lovely formal touch for the neckline of your black dinner gown.

Lauren has made an evening cap of white ermine, pointed toward the front. The forward movement is still the most important one in hats. Mainbocher and Patou like classic black evening hats with veiling effects trimmed with tulle or aigrets. You could hardly call the spotted veiling caps of Mainbocher's or the mesh caps of Schiaparelli's bonafide hats, though they will take their place for dinner suits.

And for very formal occasions the beaded caps held on by jeweled, plumbe combs and the ruched tulle chignons are as fantastic as diadems.

STITCHING FAVORED

PARIS. (AP)—Stitching is a favorite trim for mid-season models with some designers here. They use it on collars and jabots in closely packed rows so that it is a finish in itself.

Santa Annes Nominated By P. T. A.

Mrs. Neal Beisel and Mrs. W. T. Kirven, Santa Ana, brought honor to Santa Ana when they reached the nominee list for state officers in the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, this week.

Mrs. Beisel is nominated as state second vice-president, and Mrs. Kirven, who is now fourth district president, as seventh vice president.

Mrs. E. C. Clark of Sutter Creek is proposed as president. Election will take place April 30 as a feature of the state convention April 28 to May 1 at San Jose.

Both Santa Ana women have been long active in P. T. A. work.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS OFFICIALLY VISITED BY DEPUTY GUARDIAN

Official visit of the deputy grand guardian, Mrs. Emily Warren of Buena Park, featured Tuesday evening's Job's Daughters meeting in the Masonic temple.

W. D. Farren of Los Angeles, associate grand guardian, was another honored guest.

Misses Dorothy Skinner, Bernice Henderson, Beverly Nicks and Marjorie Couch were initiated April 18 in Fullerton, Santa Ana, Anaheim and Fullerton Job's Daughters will meet to honor Mrs. Ethel Palm of Sacramento, grand guardian.

March birthday anniversaries of Misses Bernice Henderson, Betty Carlson, Marjorie McCune and Ruth Olson were celebrated. Each girl was given a handkerchief.

Mrs. Warren was given a silver basket of sweet peas. Mrs. C. E. Carlson had baked a birthday cake, and Miss June Corey had charge of social features of the evening.

16TH ANNIVERSARY IS OCCASION FOR PARTY AT HICKS'

"Happy birthday, Merlon!" said friends of young Mr. Hicks when he celebrated his 16th anniversary at a party given by his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Hicks, Monday evening in their home, 1222 South Broadway.

Bible conundrums, and other games entertained the jolly crowd which came to the house before the honor guest could get started to Santa Ana Symphony orchestra practice that evening.

Ice cream and a birthday cake complete with candles brought the party to a happy close.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Rhinard, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Garlock, O. R. Lemons, Joe Lemons, Mary Ann Lucas, Ellen and Russell Emma, Bertie Mae Gregg, Janice Leonard, Goldie Kliever, Adalene Salver, Eleanor Freburg and Werneth Bickel.

ANNIVERSARY IS FETED AT PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lyeann's wedding anniversary provided an added incentive for them to celebrate when they feted their bridge club recently with a dinner party in their home, 1023 West Camille street.

Ranunculus and sweet peas decked the dinner table. Maurice and Herbert Lyeann, sons of the home, and Thomas Tarwick assisted with the serving duties.

Prizes for the evening's play went to Mrs. William J. Dean, Mrs. Charles Ryan, Herman Schacht and Walter Wright.

Present with Mr. and Mrs. Lyeann were Messrs. and Mesdames W. R. Sylvester, Elton Roehm, Walter Wright, George Shippe, William Dean, Charles Ryan, Ora Jennings, Elmer Smith, Al. Adrian; Mrs. B. E. Dawson, Mrs. Sue Henry and Herman Schacht.

Hot Cross Bun Drive Set By Girls

Santa Ana Girl Reserves yesterday started their hot cross bun benefit drive with orders for 200 dozen already taken and a goal of 2000 dozen before Easter.

Deliveries will be made Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 9, 10 and 11, excepting between 12 and 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

A trip to Camp Torqua (Catalina or Osceola Mountains), and money toward a trip to camp, a bronze Girl Reserve code plaque, are objects being worked for by the girls in their selling contest.

The high school Tri-Y girls are sponsoring the sale to help carry on their summer recreational and educational program.

Last night the Tri-Y Ring circle group of 25 girls met with Alice Bacon, 924 Lowell street, and planned for their traditional annual Easter morning breakfast.

Miss Maxine Knight, chairman, will work with Miss Mary Schofield, circle advisor, in planning the affair.

DEL ANO STAFF HAS INFORMAL MEETING IN FACULTY HOME

Santa Ana Junior college Del An staff members discussed group picture schedules and other business, had a social hour and were served refreshments last evening when they met in the home of Mrs. Robert Northcross, 1318 Spurgeon street.

Miss Edna Wilson conducted the meeting.

Others on the staff are Walt Bandick, John Haskell, John Henry, Ruth Warner, Lucille Grist, Robert Forney, Marjorie Bush, Frank Hertzberg, Ray Grimes, Charlotte Mock, Clifford Lee and George Bronner.

LOWELL P. T. A. TO CONSIDER HEALTH

Health-physical, mental and spiritual, will be considered by Lowell Parent-Teacher association at its March meeting Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the kindergarten room.

Dr. Hubert B. Nall, who has had practical experience in school dentistry, will be speaker of the afternoon. A question box is planned and problems will be discussed.

Under direction of Miss Ruth Stephenson, second grade pupils will present entertainment, and grade mothers will be hostesses for the social hour.

D. A. V. AUXILIARY FETED AT PARTY

An informal day was spent by the women's auxiliary to Jack Fisher chapter, D. A. V., Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Charles Spurrier, 413 Harwood street.

The day was spent in quilting. Others present were Mesdames Dean Laub, Mary Fisher, Milton Crawford, David R. Day, V. L. Brown, John Kemper, Olga Wood, Ed Redford, W. P. Alexander and Harry S. Pickard and Miss Lydia Fisher.

The Cook's Own Corner

The Journal wants to give its readers at least one tasty tried-and-true recipe each day

LADY FINGER CAKE

By Miss Leonora Tompkins

Part I: Two squares unsweetened chocolate or one cup of ground chocolate, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup cold water, 4 egg yolks, beaten.

Part II: One-half cup unsalted butter, 1 cup powdered sifted sugar, 4 egg whites beaten stiff, 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1/2 pound lady fingers. Melt chocolate in double boiler; add sugar, water and beaten yolks; cook until very thick and smooth. (Ground chocolate needs no melting.)

Part III: Cream butter gradually add sugar, beat until creamy, add vanilla and chopped nuts. Combine first and second mixtures and when thoroughly mixed fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. It is necessary to have a pan with a removable rim called a spring form. Cover bottom of pan with split lady fingers, then place split lady fingers close together vertically around sides of pan. If pan is lightly buttered the lady fingers can be pressed firmly to the pan.

Pour in mixture; cover top closely with lady fingers and set the cake in a cold place for at least 12 hours before serving. It will firm enough to slice. Before serving carefully remove rim of pan and cover top with whipped cream. Decorate with cream pressed through a pastry bag or with walnut meats or cherries. Will serve 12 persons.

NEW DISH

Broiled grapefruit makes a delicious appetizer or dessert. Cut grapefruit in halves and remove centers and seeds. Cut the fruit from the skin with a sharp knife. Add a teaspoon of butter and one of sugar to each center. Broil in hot oven until fruit turns a light golden brown.

ORANGE COUPLE MARRIED QUIETLY IN RIVERSIDE

Mrs. Mary Hostetter and F. L. Ainsworth, 542 East Chapman avenue, were married in a quiet ceremony in the home of a minister of a Christian church at Riverside Wednesday.

Attendants were the bride's son, Ross Hostetter, Costa Mesa, and the bridegroom's daughter, Mrs. Newell Moore, Garden Grove. The couple were lifelong acquaintances, both coming from Glascow, Kan. Mr. Ainsworth is a local banker. Following a brief honeymoon in Riverside and Long Beach, they will make their home on East Chapman avenue.

Clubwomen Posted on Activities

Attention, Santa Ana clubwomen!

Next week holds two especially busy days for federation-minded women, if they would heed the calls echoed by Mrs. Edwin M. Slattery, California Federation of Women's clubs press chairman, in her latest open letter.

Leaders in the federation will gather at the Biltmore hotel, Los Angeles, next Friday and Saturday for the spring executive board meeting. Mrs. W. D. James, president, who will preside over all sessions, is expected to arrive on the Thursday, when she has a full day's activity planned. She will meet with the board of trustees, who, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Howard L. Sherwood of Monterey Park, will hold a conference with the budget of the center of interest. Trustees expected to attend are Mrs. Luther Milton Williamson, Berkeley; Mrs. W. B. Rider, Sacramento; Mrs. Albert W. Stokes, San Francisco; Mrs. W. S. Cairns, Lindsay, and Mrs. F. D. Jacobs, El Centro.

During the afternoon Mrs. James will be presented by the Hollenbeck Ebell club of Los Angeles as the reciprocity day speaker. Presidents of the six districts will be her guests at dinner that evening.

Morning and noon sessions will be held on both March 19 and 20. "Family dinner" will take place Thursday evening, with Mrs. Katherine M. Turner, president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, as speaker.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS BOOK REVIEW BY MRS. DOUGLAS

The second Toastmaster's section of the Orange Woman's club heard the president of the section, Mrs. L. F. Douglas, review a book, "Our Movie Made Children," when they met yesterday at the clubhouse. Responses to roll call were made by members telling of their hobbies.

Mrs. Arthur Sipher gave a talk on "Early California History." One guest was present, Mrs. William Holder, and one new member welcomed, Mrs. Arthur T. Hobson.

Others present were Mrs. M. L. Reed, Mrs. V. A. Wood, Mrs. Cora B. Wood, Miss Fannie Haebler, Mrs. Amy Palmer, Mrs. Rex Shannon, Mrs. Bertha Neale and Mrs. C. A. Palmer.

FAHOLO CLASS HAS PARTY IN HOME OF MRS. STEFFENSEN

Faholo class members of First Baptist church were entertained at a white cross meeting Monday evening in the home of Mrs. J. Leslie Steffensen, North Ross street.

Miss Ruth Coad directed the work. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Vivian Nichols and Miss Katherine Siden in serving dessert.

Others present were Mesdames Charles Dyer, Roscoe Moore, Carrie Coffman, Gladys Brown, Oral Richards, Emelia Pickhardt, Ruth Jones, William P. Latham, Earl L. Toles, Clyde E. Cave, F. C. Watkins, W. A. Atkinson and Misses Laura Joiner, Irene Catland, Edna Ingham, Beulah Parker and Ruth Sanford.

COLLEGIATE GROUP TO GO TO RIVERSIDE

Al Markel, Betty Lee, Eloise Walker, Tommy Lacy, John Rabe and Georgianne Angne, Santa Ana Junior college students, will trek to Riverside this evening to attend a potluck supper in celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of Riverside Junior college.

The dance will climax the day's activities.

EBELL SECOND TRAVEL SECTION TO MEET

Ebell second travel section will meet at 12:30 o'clock Monday in Ebell clubhouse for a luncheon and a program.

Mrs. N. M. Wyatt will discuss Ethiopia in the afternoon program. Those unable to be present are to notify Mrs. Clyde Horton, Mrs. Edna Machader or Mrs. Minnie Fields, social committee for the day.

PEGASUS LITERARY CLUB TO MEET

Pegasus literary club will meet Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Walter Foote, 515 East Myrtle street. Mrs. Charles C. Fuller's program theme will be used for the day.

HINT ON EGG POACHING

To keep poaching eggs from sticking to the pan, put a long handled spoon into the water and hold the egg on it for a moment.

Mary Stoddard Miss Wondering Advised To Leave Home, By Woman Who Signs Herself A Mother

By MARY STODDARD

A cry from the ranks of youth! Shall she leave home, asks Miss "Wondering" in a recent letter. And "A Mother" writes to answer, yes, if by so doing she can find peace and happiness. Then, let her return home later. Here is the advice: Dear Miss Stoddard: I feel I must make a few remarks regarding "Wondering's" letter to you. First may I correct your reference to her as a "teen child" and as a "girl-child." A girl of 18 is no longer a child but a young woman and should be treated as such. Young women 18, 19 and 20 years of age, go out into the business world to earn their own living and are considered women.

If parents would treat their children as grown-ups it would be easier for them when the time comes for them to go out into the world to earn their own living.

If I were you, Miss Wondering, I would try to find work in some one's home, doing housework for a while so that you would be able to adapt yourself to other surroundings and other people and then you would know whether it was your mother or you that is at fault. Your mother will appreciate you better when she sees you and I'm sure you will appreciate her a lot more. Only six years ago I was in your same place, and I believe I can say this is the best way when misunderstanding comes between mother and daughter.

If it is not possible for you to go away for a while I have another suggestion to offer. I believe your family doctor can help you if it is a case of being overworked, run down and irritable. My doctor asked me to do without salt entirely, as it makes you disagreeable and cranky. I found it really did work out, so won't you, Wondering, and your mother try this simple suggestion and I'm sure your home will be a happier place in which to live.

Sincerely, A MOTHER.

RAIN IMAGES

By Anne Zuker

The new moon tipped. Her prongs in balance. To form a golden bowl. Flowing with faint lunar mist.

Later—in the night—I heard the lances of the rain. Upon the roof. Throughout the night it rained. And all next day. And still another day. The rain fell on. Until the garden was a pool.

When dusk came, the cypress trees. The privet and the fig tree. Whose pearl-gray branches. Bare and twisted. Were now a shiny greenish black—Rain lacerated—All saw their own reflections. In the water. And wondered. Never having seen before. How beautiful they were.

SOUTH AMERICAN FAMILY VISITING IN GEORGE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Barr and children, Betty Ann and Jack, are on vacation from their home in Chile, South America, and are guests in the home of Mrs. Barr's mother, Mrs. John George, East Palmyra avenue, Orange.

The Barrs return to the United States every three years. This trip was made by boat to Panama where they landed and took an airplane across the isthmus, thence by boat to Cuba and back to Florida by plane. They spent four weeks visiting in the eastern states and arrived in Orange Feb. 26.

Mr. Barr will take a boat Easter Sunday to return to South America, where he is employed by a copper company, while Mrs. Barr and Betty Ann will remain until the last of June. Jack, aged 9, will stay in the United States indefinitely and enter a military academy in Los Angeles.

Don't Forget Jr. Ebell's Annual Tea

Buy a new frilly organdie collar for that dark blue frock. Tilt your hat at a saucy angle. Miss or Mrs. Santa Ann, and come to the fashion show!

Tomorrow afternoon, of course, at 2 o'clock, in Ebell clubhouse Peacock room, and it's Junior Ebell's annual gala stylistic occasion. Bridge and tea will complete the program of the day.

"A Cruise to Hawaii" is the colorful and intriguing decorative theme for the party, which is being planned by Mrs. Colby McKinney and a capable group of assisting junior clubwomen.

Those not wishing to play cards may come for the show. Tickets will be sold at the door.

AMBER CIRCLE, O. E. S., LUNCHEON HELD

Two shades of marigolds gave color to luncheon tables of Amber circle, O. E. S., yesterday at the Masonic temple. Mrs. F. O. DeWolfe planned the meal, assisted by Mrs. Jessie Hosea and Mrs. Lonna Hanson.

Mrs. Maude Wiley received contract prize and Mrs. Perkins a guest award. Mrs. Florence Hawkins made high score at auction bridge, and Mrs. Hannah Sturges was given a sewing prize.

ROOSEVELT P. T. A. TO MEET TUESDAY

Preceded by an executive board meeting at 2 p. m., Roosevelt school P. T. A. will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Edith Gilbert, principal of the Fremont school, is to be the speaker.

Fourth grade pupils will present a play. Mothers of the program stars are to be hostesses for the tea hour.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women

Which type of reading interests you more—books about things you know about, or material on subjects foreign to your own experience?

Mrs. Herbert Thwaite: I enjoy reading books about things outside my way of living; but I really prefer the things I know about. I would rather read about everyday life than the very unusual.

Mrs. R. E. Bacon: Both types I like to read about other people's experiences, and about everyday life, and I also enjoy travel books.

TO ADD FLAVOR

A touch of burnt sugar added to the flour which you use in making roast-beef or lamb gravy will create a pleasant flavor.

LADY FINGER CAKE

By Miss Leonora Tompkins

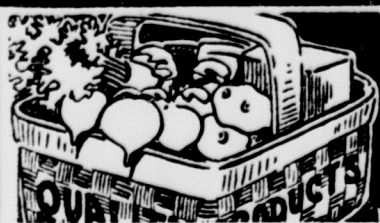

Part I: Two squares unsweetened chocolate or one cup of ground chocolate, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup cold water, 4 egg yolks, beaten.

Part II: One-half cup unsalted butter, 1 cup powdered sifted sugar, 4 egg whites beaten stiff, 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1/2 pound lady fingers. Melt chocolate in double boiler; add sugar, water and beaten yolks; cook until very thick and smooth. (Ground chocolate needs no melting.)

Part III: Cream butter gradually add sugar, beat until creamy, add vanilla and chopped nuts. Combine first and second mixtures and when thoroughly mixed fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. It is necessary to have a pan with a removable rim called a spring form. Cover bottom of pan with split lady fingers, then place split lady fingers close together vertically around sides of pan. If pan is lightly buttered the lady fingers can be pressed firmly to the pan.

Pour in mixture; cover top closely with lady fingers and set the cake in a cold place for at least 12 hours before serving. It will firm enough to slice. Before serving carefully remove rim of pan and cover top with whipped cream.

STATE SELLS 5 MILLIONS IN BONDS

Veteran Welfare Issue
Brings Best Terms in State History

SACRAMENTO, March 13. (AP) State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson announced the sale of $5,000,000 of veterans' welfare bonds yesterday at what he describes as the most advantageous terms ever obtained from state obligations.

The bonds, bearing only 2 1/2 percent interest, brought a premium of $110,850.

Last June a $5,000,000 block bearing 3 percent interest brought a premium of only $57,000.

The money is to be used for loans to veterans for the purchase of farms and homes.

GOVERNOR NOW IN SOUTH LAND

SACRAMENTO, March 13. (AP) Governor Merriam left the state capitol yesterday to spend a week in Southern California, most of the time in his Los Angeles office. He is scheduled to make two speeches, one of them on St. Patrick's day.

STOWAWAY FOR ETHIOPIA

GDYNIA, Poland. (AP)—Ethiopia

Meet King Edward's Own Pigs

These two middle white gilts—gilt is a provincial English term for a young sow—were purchased by King Edward of Britain for his farms at Windsor. He found them at the sale of pure-bred pigs held by the Home Counties Pedigree Pig Breeders' Association near London. Whether or not they realized this honor, they faced the camera unflinchingly.

is the most popular destination for stowaways sailing from this Baltic port. Ship captains say the Ethiopia-bug seems to have bitten most of the Polish youngsters who try—usually unsuccessfully—to get a free ride by hiding themselves away in the cargo. Usually they are between 12 and 16 years old.

HOPKINS FIRES WPA OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP) Saying "We'll go down the line" and keep politics out of the Works Progress Administration, Harry L. Hopkins yesterday dismissed two Illinois WPA administrators.

He said an investigation had shown E. E. Willis and Mr. Parsons of the Herrin, Ill., WPA administrative staff were "collecting money on a project for political purposes."

Hopkins said: "I will fire anybody we find doing that in the United States."

STUBBS URGES FARM AID BILL

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP) Representative Stubbs (D., Calif.) urged the house yesterday not to go home without acting on the Frazier-Lenke bill for $3,000,000,000 in new money to refinance farm mortgages.

"The farm problem is not solved," said Stubbs, "it is a national headache."

He said the administration had given agriculture some assistance, but there were thousands of farm mortgages which will be foreclosed unless congress acts.

SEEKS TO FORCE TRAM PURCHASES

LOS ANGELES, March 13. (AP) Ray L. Chesebro, city attorney, announced he will ask the state railroad commission to impound $500,000 of the funds of the Los Angeles Railway corporation to buy new street cars.

The city attorney said he attended a hearing before William Carr, state railroad commissioner, on Wednesday, and became "disgusted with the stalling tactics" of the railway company.

Brazil's minister of labor, industry and commerce recently inspected exhibits of Brazilian merchandise preparatory to shipping them to New York for a permanent commercial exposition.

Marian Martin Plans Tots' First Spring Frocks for Easy Making

Tots—and their mothers—think it just as important to appear both crisp and smart when bouncing a ball, as when going to school, to music lesson or party. Thus Marian Martin has designed pattern 9548—a softly styled little frock, with tots of two-to-ten in mind. The frock's made doubly wearable by the accompanying bloomers, which may match or contrast whichever colorful tub cotton is chosen for the frock. Tots will adore poking chubby arms through adorably puffed sleeves; will also adore the hang of crisp unbelted pleats, the neat finish of a Peter Pan collar. The one who makes it will find it just play to match and join the simple pattern pieces, guided each step of the way by the illustrated Sew Chart which comes with the pattern.

Pattern 9548 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 2 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric and 1/4 yard contrasting. Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Be sure to send for our new Spring Pattern Book! You'll be happy as a lark over the way it simplifies your clothes problems! Dozens of easy-to-make, flattering designs—smart both for now and later in the season. News of spring fabrics and accessories. Special slenderizing designs. Clothes budget hints. Patterns for children, misses, adults. Price of book, 15 cents. Book and a pattern together, 25 cents.

Send your order to The Journal Pattern Department, 117 West Fifth street, Santa Ana, Calif.

Martha Meade SUGGESTS:

A ST. PATRICK'S PARTY, OF COURSE!

An occasion demands a party! Of all the feast or holidays in the year St. Patrick's Day is the favorite "occasion" for such a party. There is a certain informality about the day—whether it comes from the vivid green decorations or from the contagious gaiety of the Irish, I don't know, but it is just the day for friendly entertaining.

Whether luncheon, dinner, buffet supper or just plain "eats," the dominant note of color will be green and the food Irish. Potatoes, ham, cabbage, and pork seem especially appropriate and lend themselves easily to a variety of menus. Plate luncheons or suppers make serving easy and at the same time it is probably the most colorful type of service to use. The main course, salad, and hot bread are all arranged on one plate. A cocktail or fruit juice may be served first and a dessert course later to complete the meal. The following menu is easy to serve and will fit into all occasions.

GREEN AND GOLD COCKTAIL
(Grapefruit sections sprinkled with chopped mint leaves)

PIGS IN CLOVER
(Pork chops served on a bed of watercress)

CHIPPED SPUDS
(Potato chips)

SHAMROCK ROLLS
(Biscuits shaped like shamrocks)

EMERALD ISLES
(Chopped raw cabbage, celery and stuffed olives in lime gelatin)

BLARNEY STONES
(Mounds of Pistachio Ice Cream)

LONDON DERRY CAKE
COFFEE

London Derry Cake with its fluffy light loaf and double frosting is appropriate, not only for the above menu, but also as a single refreshment to serve with coffee in the afternoon or evening. Children are delighted by the candy decorations and the surprise chocolate frosting beneath the outer coating of green. And here is the recipe:

London Derry Cake
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup baking powder
1/2 cup salt
1/2 cup grated orange rind
1/2 cup vanilla
5 egg whites

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add the butter and the water, and beat until very light and fluffy. Sift flour and measure; and sift again with baking powder and salt, and add alternately with remaining half cup water. Add orange rind and vanilla, and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in greased and floured 8-inch square loaf pan, in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 50 minutes. Cool and cover first with chocolate frosting, then with green mint frosting. 12 servings.

Chocolate Frosting
3 squares sweet chocolate
1 tablespoon cold water
1 egg
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate with water in double boiler. Beat egg slightly, add sugar, and add to melted chocolate. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add butter, stir until melted, and add vanilla. Beat until cool and stiff.

SETTLE COUNT'S ALIMONY ACTION

LOS ANGELES, March 13. (AP) The marital dispute between Jan Drohojowski, former Polish count, and Kathryn Cornell Drohojowski, from whom he sought alimony recently, has been virtually settled out of court, lawyers announced.

Mrs. Drohojowski, daughter of a Dallas, Tex., oil magnate, won a divorce decree at a hearing in which her husband contended she had an income of $57,500 a year. He walked out when the court denied him any alimony allowance.

WILLARD GLEE CLUBS PLANNING MUSICAL COMEDY

"Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves" is the title of the musical comedy in two acts to be presented next month by the boys' and girls' glee clubs of Willard Junior High school, under the direction of Miss Esther Davis and Miss Helen Glancy.

There will be three presentations of the operetta, the first to be a matinee for Willard students on April 30, and one for Lathrop students on May 1, with an evening production for adults following.

Taking leading roles are Sylvia White as Morgiana, Budrey Benson as Shemseddin, Herbert Scott as Abdul Hassan, Gene Shoggrass as Mustapha, Florine Gilbert as Mrs. Cassin, John Schlynd as Mr. Cassin, Jean Wallace as Fatima, Franklin Zook as Ali Baba and Barbara Bird as Mrs. Ali Baba.

The glee clubs are busy practicing their parts and those taking leading roles are practicing twice a week.

BAN KEPT ON GRAPEFRUIT CONTROL

LOS ANGELES, March 13. (AP) Superior Judge Rueben Schmidt continued the restraining order yesterday against the California "Little AAA" intra-state control of grapefruit to March 19.

Walter L. Bowers, deputy attorney general, said there was a possibility the restraining order would be dismissed at that time pending a hearing on the merits of the case.

"If the temporary restraining order is not dismissed, the state may take the case to the supreme court on a writ of prohibition as was done in the lemon prorate case," Bowers said.

The temporary restraining order was granted Dr. Harry W. Forbes, a desert grapefruit grower.

GEN. SIMONDS REPLACING MALONE

WASHINGTON, March 13. (AP)—Major General George S. Simonds, deputy chief of staff of the army for more than a year, was ordered transferred yesterday to the command of the Ninth Corps area at San Francisco.

He was ordered to sail from New York June 2, to relieve Major General Paul B. Malone, present commandant who shortly is to retire from active service.

No successor has yet been named for General Simonds in the office of the chief of staff.

JENNY LIND BOOKS SOLD
LONDON. (AP)—In 1850, when Jenny Lind went to the United States to sing under the management of Barnum, the New York fire department gave her seven volumes of Audubon's "Birds of America," in an elaborate book-case. The gift sold in an auction room here for $900.

Willard Junior High Items

The H9-0 social science class of Willard Junior High school with their instructor, Miss Mary Jane Steel, made a trip to Bowers museum recently. They were conducted through the museum by guides who helped to make the visit more interesting with stories of the exhibits.

GLEE CLUB ELECTIONS
Polly Cartwright was named president of the Willard Girls Glee club this week when officers were elected and committees named by the new president. Other officers are Jean Atkins, vice president; Lucille Lambert, secretary and treasurer; Barbara Martin, reporter, and Genevieve Reid, announcer. Martha May Mills and Maimie Lye are on the transportation committee; Ramona Segovia and Helen Lopez on the foods committee. Accompanists for the glee club are Marjorie White and La Verne Stoval.

PLAN APRIL PICNIC
La Von Gold will act as chairman of the entertainment committee for the Alpha social law group at the annual April picnic to be held at Orange county park. Rodney Bacon will assist her.

Sadye Mason, chairman of the refreshment committee, will be assisted by Anna M. Bell and Florio Spofford. These committees will meet with those of the Aloph group to compare and make further plans.

GROUP ELECTIONS
Dorothy Fraser was elected president of the new H-8 social law group at the organization meeting, held recently at the home of W. P. Read, 428 West Santa Clara. Billy Hull and Mary Markel are vice presidents; Martha Horsemann, secretary, and Barbara Prentner, reporter. The constitution was amended and adopted.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM
Henry Segerstrom as master of ceremonies at the upper division assembly held recently, the program being in the form of an amateur hour. Those who participated in the program were Patty and Peggy Redman, who sang "I'll Never Say Never Again, Again," and danced; Margaret Felds, who sang "Trees" and "Waiting at the Gate for Katie"; Velma Stroud, who gave a comedy dance; the Boys Sextet, consisting of Warren McCarty, Billy McBurney, Bob Nelson, Burrell Lee, Jack Brooks, William Sandon and Elaine Owings, accompanist, which sang "Sweet Genevieve"; June Twag, who gave a toe dance; Carol Miller and Beth Mitchell, who presented a short skit; Genevieve Vardy, who played piano solos; Silvia White, who gave a violin solo, and Helen Butler, who played a trumpet solo, "I'm Building Up to an Awful Let-Down."

MANY DISPLAYS
Colorful blocks and scrap books are displayed in the exhibit cases this week by Miss Helen Glancy. W. H. Bracewell is displaying a number of articles made in his metal shop classes. These consist of copper candlesticks, a lamp, and several miscellaneous tools. Miss Esther Davis has a number of pictures of famous screen singers loaned to her by the Fox Broadway theater, now on display for Willard students. Souvenirs brought from Europe are exhibited by Miss Deborah Elliott, including bags, laces, coins, perfume bottles, hats, and numerous postcards. A few Willard hobbies are displayed by Mrs. Grace Lund, one consisting of furs brought by Freeman Clause, others of stamps contributed by John Blair, Dexter Ball and Jack Neff, and another of minerals loaned by Charles Bailey. The last display was contributed by Mrs. Maurine Croddy's social science class, and is one made up of Chinese art, wooden figures, dolls, slippers and other garments and kimono.

HOLD ASSEMBLY
The Boys Glee club opened the recent lower-division assembly by singing two selections, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "The Little Brown Church in the Vale." Three reels of film, "An Alaskan Interlude," were shown.

While the reels were being changed the Redman sisters, Peggy and Patty, gave two numbers, a song, "Treasure Island," and a piano duet.

SPEEDBALL TEAMS
The speedball after-school varieties were chosen recently, as follows: Seventh grade—Helen Garrett, Mabel Cradit, Eloia Romero, Natalie Nelson, Dorothy Eley, Betty Joe Froeschle, Marilyn Plavan, Helen Butler and Juanita Johnson; eighth grade—Mamie Eley, Gerry Johnson, Gerry Navarro, Lucille Crawford, Beatrice Hewitt, Barbara Prentner, Lillian Hernandez, Vickie Anderson, Debra Murrillo, Isabel Relistab, Lillian Breaud and Hollis Tibbals and Jean Conliffe, substitutes; ninth grade—Angie Murrillo, Anna Barry, Lucy Aceveda, Mary Towler, Anita Potter, Louise Bennett, Maxine Bingle, Juanita Jones, Elaine Owens, Pat Emlson, Marianna McCullum, and substitutes Betty Johnson, Marjorie Nunan, Marian Waffle and Maxine Waffle.

SACRED PLAYS HERE SUNDAY

The Inglewood Pageant Players of the First Presbyterian church of Inglewood, under the direction of Mrs. Edward Campbell, will present two Biblical dramas, "James of Galilee" and "The Publican," in the First Presbyterian church of Santa Ana, Sunday night at 7 o'clock. The dramas are presented in a colorful, dramatic and inspirational way, the costumes being direct from the Holy Land. The lighting effects are under the direction of expert electricians.

The dramas portray in the time when the Christ walked the shores of Galilee and called His disciples together. "James of Galilee" portrays the home life of the simple fisher-folk who became so powerful through faith in the Man of Galilee. The first scene takes place in the home of James, the son of Zebedee, and the wife of James cannot understand the intense interest James is taking in a Man down by the boats. She thinks the Man of Galilee is a beggar. The routine of her household is disturbed and she represents the interference of this Man who seems to be changing the life of her husband. The end of the drama teaches a lesson of the way the Christ can transform lives.

Story of "Publican"
"The Publican" depicts life along the waterfront of the Sea of Galilee. Rome is in power and Matthew, the publican, although a Jew, is a servant of Rome. His dishonest ways make him despised by his own people. Despite his disinclination, he must witness the miraculous power of the Christ and the great faith of the leper, who lies helpless in the street of Capernaum. This makes Matthew realize the blackness of his life, and the Light of the Christ beholds the great longing heart of Matthew and claims him as His own.

Mrs. Edward Campbell, the director, is well known for her pageantry, having directed the city's pageant two years when more than 200 participants took part. During her activities in biblical pageantry she has gathered around her old and young people whom she has trained in the art of biblical dramatization.

Casts Announced
The Christ is never characterized, but always represented by a light. The casts for the two dramas follow:

"JAMES OF GALILEE"
James, a fisherman of Galilee, Fred Ray; Father, his wife, Clare Parsons; Zebedee, his father, Erle Peterson.
"THE PUBLICAN"

Italy's King Taxed on French Graves of His Ancestors

CHAMBERY, France, March 13. (AP)—France numbers Victor Emmanuel II of Italy as her most distinguished taxpayer in this region. He is assessed as owner of the domain of Hautecombe, on which the historic abbey stands, burial place of 43 princes of the House of Savoy. When the king's grandfather, Victor Emmanuel I, ceded Savoy to France in 1860, a special protocol provided that the domain should remain the inalienable property of the House of Savoy. The abbey, partly a royal residence, partly a monastery, is visited at least once a year by Italian royalty. Founded in 1125 by St. Bernard and Count Amedeo III of Savoy, the abbey was famed as a seat of learning. Two popes, Celestin IV and Nicholas II, were educated there, and Innocent IV found refuge in it from the German emperor, Frederick II.

Nurse First Hawaii Vet to Sign Up for Bonus

HONOLULU, March 13. (AP)—The first Hawaii war veteran to sign a bonus application was Mrs. Frances H. Layton, who served 10 months overseas as a nurse at the American base hospital No. 35, Mars-sur-Ailler, France. After signing she helped several score buddies with their applications.

They Know Whereof They Speak

THROUGH the patriotic mobilization of public feeling against war, the American Legion here and elsewhere in California is performing a service which may prove of incalculable value to the United States—a service as important in some respects as the heroism of the veterans in France 18 years ago.

This drive against war—in the form of circulation of petitions to Congress supporting the universal draft plan—merits the backing of every peace-loving citizen.

Aimed against war slackers and profiteers, the draft plan would take the profit out of war and put the whole nation on an equal footing in event of a conflict. Coupled with adequate neutrality legislation and a strong defense, it is the best guarantee of peace that we know. Main points of the Legion's universal draft plan are:

"1. That men for military and naval service shall be drafted upon equal terms, regardless of occupation.

"2. That all material resources of the United States shall be drafted at the same time that men are drafted and, without preference, used to wage the common conflict.

"3. To freeze all prices at inception of the war.

"4. To confiscate 95 per centum of all incomes above normal so that funds which escape price freezing could contribute to the cost of the war."

Horror and miseries of modern war are well known to Legionnaires, many of whom went through hell across the Atlantic in 1917-18. Their condemnation of war is the most damning evidence that can be filed against the wave of military insanity which seems to be sweeping Europe, Asia and Africa into another homicidal debauch.

War veterans have a definite idea of what America's foreign policy should be. They want this country to stay out of any war that it doesn't start, and they don't want it to start any!

Soft Pedal Those Noises

CIVILIZATION has progressed, but its climb has been accompanied by a terrific amount of grinding, smashing, creaking, squealing noises.

How many precious moments of real quiet do you enjoy each day? The telephone rings a wailing torment of noise.

The radio loud speaker brings you crooners, saxophones, imitators, amateur hours and political speakers. Automobile horns issue a variety of noises that are punctuated by screaming brakes and growling gears.

Science is waging a war against these disturbing noises. Eastern cities are considering an anti-noise fight that promises to bring peace and quiet to the jangled nerves of factory and office workers.

We do not have to wait for experts to cut out some of the noises. How many unnecessary noises are there in your home that can be eliminated?

A creaking door seems trivial, but its elimination may result in improving your peace of mind.

Let's hold a spring noise inventory. The results may surprise you.

Spring Mind Cleanup

THERE'S no question about it. Signs of spring are everywhere. Small boys are playing marbles and their older brothers are batting around a baseball.

Gold bags and fishing rods are leaving their dusty attics. Women are gazing soulfully at new spring bonnets.

In the spring a woman's fancy turns heavily to thoughts of housecleaning. Out with the dust—in with the soap suds and sunshine.

You are raking your lawns and cleaning up the attic—but what about those cobwebbed mind attics?

Now is a good time to move out a few of the old ideas in a general spring "mind cleanup."

The world is changing. New books are being written. Drop into the library and look 'em over.

It's an interesting campaign.

In Vienna a shooting gallery operator has provided a machine gun for his patrons to try out on tin soldier targets. That makes us pine for the rich old culture of Europe.

Orange County At Its Best

ORANGE COUNTY scenery is at its finest right now. Following late rains, Nature's spring dress is coming into its own. A cloak of green covers hills, canyons, and meadows. Wild flowers are lifting their bright heads. Irvine park, Brea canyon, Laguna canyon, Trabuco canyon—these beauty spots are incomparable.

If you fail to explore these verdant sections of your county while they are decked in spring finery—and that means any time within the next few weeks—you will miss a priceless treat right under your nose.

Major Bowes' recipe for a tasty dish of fish got the gong in a California gourmet contest. The major should stick to hams.

Yes, Business Is Better

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12. (P)—Big gains came to Pacific Coast retail trade in February, despite unfavorable weather. The general level of retail sales was 16 per cent higher than in February of last year, the federal reserve bank of San Francisco found in its preliminary survey.

Out of the 122 stores studied, 102 reported increased sales.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

Thoughts while strolling: You never think of Graham McNamee with that booming voice being such a little guy. Suggestion: Why not show the name of the artist in a swell window dressing job? Newest film sweetheart: Anita Louise. Runner up: Joan Marsh.

The poetical prodigy, Nathalia Crane, has grown up to resemble Edna Ferber. I like the English term "a sweet shop." Joan Bennett seems to have turned leader of her talented tribe. Top in juicy Oxford accent: James Allan Mollison, the British flyer.

Looming: Tax strikes. What became of Nick the Greek? Fred Astaire would be a bet for the necktie ad indorsers. Sob stories that leave me cold: Those about the sad plight of little Gloria Vanderbilt. None of the explorers suggests the Arctic Circle like Capt. Bob Bartlett.

City wines: A crated calf bawling through a crowded street. Never saw anyone who looked like W. C. Fields. Ben Ali Haggin suggests a cavalier cape, balcony, moonlight and a Spanish guitar. Dale Carnegie who has made so many public speakers out of the inarticulate. Lowell Thomas, for instance.

Put a set of sideburns on Dudley Field Malone and you have John Bull. And a red light over Frank McIntyre's pistol pocket and you have the back end of a black morning vignette. Drenching the sky with pailfuls of light. Must be spring. Or something!

One of radio's earliest birds is Fred Feibel, who broadcasts organ music from the Paramount theater during sunup hours. For seven years he has been arising at 4:30 a. m. in his Ridgely Park, N. Y., home to reach the studio in time for rehearsal. His day is done at 2 o'clock. He drifted to the organ via violin and piano and only a few years ago took organ lessons. He admits his fingering, although achieving marvelous results, is not according to Hoyle. He is about 30 and cannot play satisfactorily without puffing a big black cigar.

Perhaps the rudest audience gesture in the theater was accomplished at the opening of the ill-fated show Ed Wynn produced recently. The tense moment in a plot that dealt with mercy killing was when a lethal dose was administered. The audience was in breathless suspense when someone perpetrated a loud snore. A titter followed, but the players struggled valiantly on. It was believed the jealous contribution of some enemy of a member of the cast.

Moderns do not always flock to the jazzier shrines of hotelodom. There is, for instance, The Gotham, one of the sedate established inns on the avenue. Its manner is strictly mid-Victorian, richly aristocratic and leisurely. Lavender and old lace ladies who circle the park in jewel-box, horse-drawn closed carriages live there. Also a crisp white mustache late afternoon loungers of club windows. But The Gotham's clientele also includes Tallulah Bankhead, Will Rogers' daughter Mary, Billie Burke, G. B. Stern, Bramwell Fletcher, Helen Chandler, Somerset Maugham and O. yes, the No. 1 man-about-town of Gallipoli, O., Frank R. Vance.

One of the publicity ladies for a publishing house, probably fed up with blurring the handwork of others so extravagantly, has stepped out and turned in a novel herself. A first literary shot plinking the gong. She is Ramona Herdman, an upstate girl with a Syracuse, N. Y., newspaper experience when she joined the hallyhoo brigade at Harper's. Her book is "A Time for Love." About a newspaperman who became a magazine editor and tried to keep up with being a father, husband, lover and son along with his drinking. Personal opinion: The best trial performance of a novelist in five years.

I was wondering today what happened to the beret, once so swanky and now as passe as the celluloid rosebud in the lapel. The first beret I ever saw was worn by Byron Chandler, on shipboard, during his millionaire kid days when he was always jumping the gun a bit on fashion. He also carried the first swagger stick I ever saw.

A delightful little old man in our neighborhood at 80 is spruce and, although quite deaf, larkish. I noticed he was without his usual escort, a paid companion, today. I looked questioning. "Shipped my leash," he cackled. And added: "I'm headed for Minsky's." Bless him!

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, March 13.—When the President first sent to Congress his plan for the taxation of surplus corporation profits, "Muley" Bob Doughton of North Carolina, chairman of the house ways and means committee, was none too enthusiastic. He wasn't outright hostile, but he had his doubts.

Then Doughton's committee began considering possible alternative taxes. It listened to Chester Davis, Triple-A administrator, who supplied a long list of substitutes for processing taxes.

Prominent among these substitutes was an item calling for a 33-1/3 per cent increase in the excise tax on tobacco.

Tobacco happens to be a major crop in North Carolina. Also, Doughton, not only happens to be a candidate for reelection this year, but wants to run against Senator George Norris' rural electrification bill. By some mysterious process of mental gymnastics, North Carolina's mellifluous Bob Reynolds was inspired to launch into a glowing paean to the national beauties of his state.

"In my beloved and heavenly section of western North Carolina," he rhapsodized, "there are presented for the national eye the most beautiful things to be found anywhere on this great hemisphere."

"I will admit," hastily added Reynolds, "that our sister state of Kentucky likewise is possessed of a great natural beauty in the form of Mammoth Cave."

New York's Bob Wagner rose.

"And the state of New York," again added Reynolds, "also presents some of the most interesting historic places of this entire continent."

Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming rose.

"Yes, and I will agree," said Reynolds, catching the determined eye of O'Mahoney, "that Wyoming too can boast of the largest natural park in America and some of the most beautiful scenery to be found anywhere."

At this point peppery Carter Glass of Virginia interrupted:

"I want to extend a cordial invitation to the senator from North Carolina and others to forget their provincialism and visit my state, Virginia, is the greatest state on earth."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

It looks like a busy year for Congressman John O'Connor, who has kept one jump ahead of the kick he was going to give Father Coughlin. Several prominent Tammanyites in the "gas house" district which he represents are being strongly urged to run against O'Connor on the ground that, although a Democrat and chairman of the house rules committee, he has opposed important New Deal legislation.

Congressman Jennings Randolph, West Virginia Democrat, has introduced a bill to erect a memorial to Dr. Samuel A. Mudd, who set the leg of John Wilkes Booth, Lincoln assassin.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

MARCH 13, 1911

NEWPORT BEACH.—The first of the hose carts was equipped with 400 feet of hose Tuesday morning. The car was taken to Twenty-second street and a test made in which water was thrown over the Eagle building. More hose will be purchased later on for the other two carts, as the city is running short of money at present.

NEW YORK.—Ty Cobb gets more than any other active ball player. Frank Navin pays him $9,000 a year for the service he renders the Detroit club. Christy Mathewson, star of all hurlers, is second to Cobb. The New York Giants pay Christy $8,000 a season.

The monthly "Y" meeting, held last evening, was largely attended. The following new officers were elected: President, Miss Cora Seifert; vice president, Harry Warner; corresponding secretary, Miss Hilda Jones; recording secretary, Miss Lucy Hill, and treasurer, Stewart Smith.

Mrs. J. M. Lacy yesterday celebrated her birthday, and in honor of the occasion her daughters, Misses Margaret and Laura Lacy, surprised her by inviting a few of her friends in for dinner.

Within a few years of the installation of the first beet sugar plant within its borders, Orange county has attained the first rank in this business. The state, or the entire United States, for that matter, presents no such showing in sugar beet culture and sugar manufacture as does Orange county, with its comparatively limited area.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION is remaking the railroad map of the country. It has ordered a reduction in passenger fares to a basic rate of two cents a mile and three cents for Pullmans. For some time the western and southern roads have been experimenting with these rates and have found the results good. Traffic has increased and revenues have been the most assuring since the depression rolled many of the lines into receiverships.

Opposition has come mainly from the eastern roads where shorter hauls are an important factor. For many years, we have been told, the railroads drew most of their income from freight business, and that passenger traffic involved heavy losses. They showed no great alarm as long as freight shipments held up. But highway traffic, snatching away the passenger business first, has been eating into freight receipts. Transportation by rail is seriously imperiled.

American history has been intimately connected with railroad development. The conquest of the continent winged its triumphant way on bands of steel. East and West were bound together. Because fewer lines went north and south, bonds of sympathy and

PENSIONS AND TAXES

To the Editor: In The Journal of March 3, we find an editorial, "Taxpayers in a Trap."

He quotes Supervisor William K. Jerome as saying that tens of thousands of old people come to California to live on "easy money."

To suppose that any appreciable number of people at the age of 55 would come to California, support themselves for three years, and live on charity for two years in order to get a pension, is absurd. Other states have more liberal pension laws than this state. The federal pension law is the same for all states. The mere mention of the possibility of all the 10,000,000 people of this country, above 55, migrating to California is so ridiculous that it is laughable. Even though some might be attracted by the advertisements of the wonderful climate, they would be deterred by the reception they might get at the border. (The United States Constitution means nothing to California.) Five years is a long time to wait.

What about those who came here seven or eight years ago, with pockets full of money, who invested large sums in the much advertised real estate and who are now on relief? There are thousands of them. Should they be obliged to wait 15 years to get enough for a bare existence in return for the wealth California deprived them of?

Most of those people were those who had retired from active life with a competence expecting to spend their remaining years in "the land of sunshine" free from care. California owes much of its wealth to those who have come from other states with money and invested it here and help make the state what it is.

As for living on "easy pension," or "fat pension," it has entirely escaped my notice. No one of those I know of have more than a bare existence with the most rigid economy. But it is possible I may not be in touch with the favored ones.

The taxpayers should be thankful that the federal government is helping to take care of the indigent old instead of hoping that it will "abrogate" its part, so there would be no aid to the state or to the taxpayers, upon whom the burden would fall.

The taxpayers need no "bugaboo" to look at to fear the high taxes. The supervisors and other office holders furnish enough real material for the tax burden, without that.

But, sometimes it is expedient to put up a straw man for the people to fight so that their attention will be distracted from the real enemy.

RACHEL M. GATZLAFF, Tustin.

Les Fountain, who can manage theaters but can't manage the flu, has rolled out to the desert to give the germs a sunbath. If the sun's penetration can kill all of 'em maybe he will be a public benefactor, but I do not want the sacrifice to go so far that it will include Les.

Fred Astaire is said to exhibit discontent over a contract which only pays $4,000,000 a year. He is dissatisfied with his constant teaming with Ginger Rogers. Says it detracts. This movie business is too fast for me, but if Fred loses Rogers he can begin to chafe off the last three ciphers. I used to dance some, but nobody ever "paid" any attention to me unless there was a woman in my arms. And that goes for you and you, ad infinitum.

Jimmy Utt is going to run for the senate and Neil Edwards is running away from it. The glamour of a state senatorship has gone for Edwards, but there is a glow for Jimmy. He's always made a good assemblyman. He should make a better senator.

Patrolman Stephenson thinks a car parked for three hours in an hour zone is long enough. Fact is he thinks it's too long. That's why he left a ticket for the owner. When I caution him not to play any favorites he refused to act. I wanted him to tag a "kiddie" car which had been parked in front of a beauty parlor for about two hours. "Steve" said he had no jurisdiction. Maybe not—but he had good judgment.

When you see a covey of automobile dealers you can bet that part of the conversation is about taxes. Won't be long now until every dealer will have to hire his own tax expert. The latest ordeal has all the earmarks of double-taxation. Some payments are being made under protest. That's a poor way of ever getting your money back.

Manuel Aguella, who is on a Jim Detrich meal ticket, was in a position this morning to make the front page, but he failed to take advantage of the opportunity. Manuel was on the outside of the second story windows looking in. As an aerial acrobat he put up a good performance, moving from one side of the building to the other, waited several minutes to be an eye-witness, but Manuel refused to fall. He just motivated from place to place with the greatest of ease without any trapeze. Guess I was the only fellow who was nervous. But he should remember there is sometimes a slip between the first and second window. That's where the news begins.

Started out to get some local info and couldn't find any on account of the fog, so came back to the office to look over the morning papers and found out the leopard and men had Tarzan tied up. Andy Gump is trying to steal my thunder and employed a blonde secretary, that France will get out of the League of Nations if Germany stays in, Great Britain don't know whether to stay in or get out, some fellows have lost their jobs with the PWA, that France is ready for war and we are not, King Edward has asked for an increased allowance which is the best sign he is going to get married, and then a telegram arrived from Al Irish about an investment at Huntington Beach which localized the situation, and so I sauntered into the daily human vortex to get a little dirt for the boys and girls who like a little gossip now and then, which is relished by the best of men—so long as they are not involved.

Remarkable Remarks

I always feel that a written speech can never be a good speech. The rhythms of the spoken word and the written word are entirely different.—Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada.

We might do worse than to study the possibilities of establishing island prisons, or even penal reservations, at suitably remote places on the mainland.—Sanford Bates, director of the United States Bureau of Prisons.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

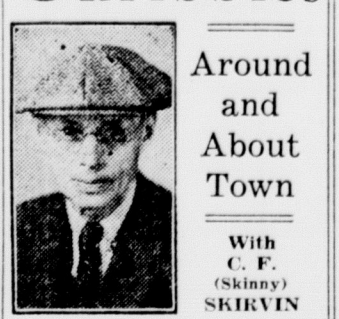

Railroads Bid for Motor-Tired Passengers

MOTOR INTERESTS were less evident between Yankee land and Dixie. Perhaps the slavery question would have reached a peaceful solution and the dark chapter of Civil war may not have been written if railroad tentacles had reached the south rather than to the west.

In many ways the American people are a blundering lot. Our two hands work at cross purposes. With one hand we pour billions of money into highways which destroy the railroads. With the other hand we bolster up the railroads. I keep them from complete dissolution by the attacks of highway traffic which we have encouraged. Thousands of empty freight cars rattle along parallel to paved roads where fleets of trucks snatch the cream of business.

With the freight business in danger the railroads are bidding as never before for the return of passenger traffic. And they are getting it. Faster and safer travel, more luxurious accommodations, courteous service are winning the public, tired of the automobile toy and appalled by the motor death-rate. Last year the railroads lost not one passenger's life. Meanwhile the highways are strewn with the dead and dying.

Frank Walters of the postoffice force, may not polish up the handle of the big front door, but he does take mighty good care of the lock and key mechanism of your postoffice box. But he put me on the spot this morning when he had a number of the receptacles open for repair, one of which belonged to me by virtue of having my dues paid. You know George had the doors open and the numbers sort of reversed themselves or there was something cockeyed with my bifocals. I had no trouble getting in the wrong box.

Lest they forget, the weather man sends another blizzard into the Minnesota and Wisconsin territory. Oh, well, we had our earthquake anniversary this week, and today is Friday, the thirteenth.

Harold Wahlberg sends me notice of a forum meeting at which one of the topics for discussion will be: "What's Ahead for the Citrus Grower?" Wish I knew. That question has been bothering me some, and much more since 1930. But you won't find out unless you investigate. That seems to be the popular plan from the administration viewpoint down to the fellow who raises potatoes—or is asked not to raise them.

Les Fountain, who can manage theaters but can't manage the flu, has rolled out to the desert to give the germs a sunbath. If the sun's penetration can kill all of 'em maybe he will be a public benefactor, but I do not want the sacrifice to go so far that it will include Les.

Fred Astaire is said to exhibit discontent over a contract which only pays $4,000,000 a year. He is dissatisfied with his constant teaming with Ginger Rogers. Says it detracts. This movie business is too fast for me, but if Fred loses Rogers he can begin to chafe off the last three ciphers. I used to dance some, but nobody ever "paid" any attention to me unless there was a woman in my arms. And that goes for you and you, ad infinitum.

Jimmy Utt is going to run for the senate and Neil Edwards is running away from it. The glamour of a state senatorship has gone for Edwards, but there is a glow for Jimmy. He's always made a good assemblyman. He should make a better senator.

Patrolman Stephenson thinks a car parked for three hours in an hour zone is long enough. Fact is he thinks it's too long. That's why he left a ticket for the owner. When I caution him not to play any favorites he refused to act. I wanted him to tag a "kiddie" car which had been parked in front of a beauty parlor for about two hours. "Steve" said he had no jurisdiction. Maybe not—but he had good judgment.

When you see a covey of automobile dealers you can bet that part of the conversation is about taxes. Won't be long now until every dealer will have to hire his own tax expert. The latest ordeal has all the earmarks of double-taxation. Some payments are being made under protest. That's a poor way of ever getting your money back.

Manuel Aguella, who is on a Jim Detrich meal ticket, was in a position this morning to make the front page, but he failed to take advantage of the opportunity. Manuel was on the outside of the second story windows looking in. As an aerial acrobat he put up a good performance, moving from one side of the building to the other, waited several minutes to be an eye-witness, but Manuel refused to fall. He just motivated from place to place with the greatest of ease without any trapeze. Guess I was the only fellow who was nervous. But he should remember there is sometimes a slip between the first and second window. That's where the news begins.

Started out to get some local info and couldn't find any on account of the fog, so came back to the office to look over the morning papers and found out the leopard and men had Tarzan tied up. Andy Gump is trying to steal my thunder and employed a blonde secretary, that France will get out of the League of Nations if Germany stays in, Great Britain don't know whether to stay in or get out, some fellows have lost their jobs with the PWA, that France is ready for war and we are not, King Edward has asked for an increased allowance which is the best sign he is going to get married, and then a telegram arrived from Al Irish about an investment at Huntington Beach which localized the situation, and so I sauntered into the daily human vortex to get a little dirt for the boys and girls who like a little gossip now and then, which is relished by the best of men—so long as they are not involved.
